$12,000,000 NEW HAVEN DREAM

FANCY PRICE FOR TROLLEYS

WASHINGTON, May 21.—That the New Haven Railroad paid $20,000,000 for the Rhode Island trolleys, when they were valued at only $8,000,000, was the admission by former President Charles S. Mellen today, when Mr. Mellen resumed the stand in the investigation of the New Haven's methods and finances by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The witness justified the price by the contention that the New Haven was buying the future prospects of the trolley lines, in addition to their earning power and physical value at the time of the deal.

"In other words," interrupted Governor Foik, "the New Haven was spending $12,000,000 for a dream."

"Possibly," retorted the witness, "but it hasn't been a very bad dream at that."

Mr. Mellen testified later that he had conferred with President Roosevelt in 1907 and that the President had told him that if the New Haven refused to sell its steamship holdings to C. W. Morse, "it would experience no inconvenience during the Roosevelt administration." Mellen added that he did not sell and that was the reason that the New Haven holdings were not named in the bill of equity filed by Attorney-General Bonaparte in 1907.

Mr. Mellen testified that the influence of former United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island was proffered the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad in

$15,000 Blaze at Massabesic Lake

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 21.—The Summer colony at Massabesic Lake was visited today by a threatening fire which destroyed the ballroom, the Burke Brothers grocery and provision store and the Columbia Inn. The police suspect incendiarism. The loss is estimated at about $15,000.

Address by Starbuck.

Professor Edwin D. Starbuck will address the Congregational ministers at their meeting, in Pilgrim Hall, Monday, May 25, at 10:30 a.m., on "God and Matter."

Happy Apartment Hunters

It used to be that the prospect of having to find an apartment filled one with dreary forebodings.

But no longer! The day of the tiresome search is ended. The tramping of streets and stairs has ceased. There is happiness in the hearts of today's apartment hunters.

To locate the desirable, they simply turn to the classified columns of the Boston American.

Here, under the heading of "Apartments to Let," they find precisely what they want in the desired neighborhood, and at the rent they have planned to pay.

Make this method yours!

If its results are not immediate, you can hasten them by writing an ad of your own. Phrase your requirements in words and leave with any of the American's "Want Ad" Stations, the branch office at 264 Washington Street, main office at 80 Summer Street, or

HARLOWE GIRL DIED IN RIVER

The body of a woman, found in the Neponset River, was today positively identified as that of Laura B. Harlowe, the Dorchester girl missing for weeks. Her sister Annie B. Harlowe, identified the body by the hair comb and barrette. Medical Examiner Leary said death was due to drowning, probably suicide.

Mystery surrounding the cause of the death of the young woman whose body was found in the Neponset River, and believed to be that of Laura B. Harlowe, who disappeared March 31, led Medical Examiner Leary to perform an autopsy today to supplement his first examination.

Medical Examiner Leary is not yet prepared to give his theory of the actual cause of the young woman's death. Neither will he disclose the results of his preliminary examination.

Suspicions of foul play, prevalent when Miss Harlowe was first reported missing from No. 75 Southern avenue, Dorchester, were revived today.

The case is complicated, however, by the fact none of Miss Harlowe's relatives have been able to identify the body.

SCOUT SUICIDE THEORY.

Following the disappearance of Miss Harlowe, her friends, assisted by the police, made a search all over New England for her. Relatives of the young woman and John Swift, her suitor, refused to believe she had committed suicide.

Though the body was badly decomposed, the clothing corresponds with that worn by Miss Harlowe. Her brother, cousin and uncle have viewed the body, but could not definitely identify it. Her sister will view the body today.

The body is at the City Hospital morgue, where Medical Examiner Leary will perform an autopsy. The body was discovered by Edward Howard, sixteen, of No. 333 Adams street, Dorchester, who was rowing about the river.

AGES CORRESPOND.

The age of the woman and the place where her body was found attracted the suspicions of the authorities, for Lower Mills bond is close to the place where Miss Harlowe is said to have threatened to kill herself. She had spoken of throwing herself into the Neponset River.

Miss Harlowe, who was employed in an Ashmont bakery, was last seen on March 31, going towards Neponset. Soon after she was reported missing the Boston and Milton police dragged the river, but were unable to find any trace of her body. She was twenty-four and the woman whose body was found in the river was about that age.

Woman Killed by Auto Identified

The woman struck and killed by an automobile driven by Frederick A. Mowatt, on Charles street last night, was today identified as Miss Margaret Duffy of No. 4 Elmwood court Roxbury. Miss Duffy was fifty-one years old. She was boarding a car opposite the Public Gardens when the automobile struck her. Mowatt, the chauffeur, was arraigned in court today on a charge of manslaughter.

Chelsea Man Guilty of Store Robbery

Harry Cohen, alias Frank Smith, twenty-two, of Myrtle street, Malden, appeared in the Chelsea Court today charged with stealing $458.15 in hardware in the nighttime from Samuels Hardware Company, No. 204 Broadway. Cohen pleaded guilty, received an indefinite sentence in the Massachusetts State Reformatory, at Concord, and appealed.

AMERICAN GOLFERS ALL LOSE

By HERBERT TEMPLE.

SANDWICH, Eng., May 21.—The American golfers' invasion of England has failed. Only two representatives of the United States remained in the British amateur championship tournament today when play began in the fourth round, and both were beaten.

The British stars have gained revenge for their many defeats by Americans in the world of sports, and will now fight alone for their golf championship. Ten Americans entered for the British championship, but this number decreased daily until the last stars of the United States were eliminated today by the defeat of Charles W. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, and Harold Weber of Toledo.

HILTON IS BEATEN.

Charles W. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, was beaten in the fourth round of the tournament for the British amateur golf championship. His conqueror was C. B. MacFarlane of the Bushey Hall Golf Club, who played the most sensational game that has marked the progress of the tournament. MacFarlane was 4 up and 2 to play. This was a day of upsets in the playing. Harold H. Hilton, the present British champion, was also defeated. He lost to E. Blackwell of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club by 2 down and 1 to play.

MacFarlane's strokes were marvelous. He excelled at the tees and in approaching and putting, and experts who watched his play declared it was the best that had ever been witnessed in a championship tourney.

EVANS GOOD LOSER.

Evans, who had been regarded as the mainstay of the Americans since the defeat of Jerome D. Travers and Francis Ouimet, took his defeat good-humoredly. He laughed when the match was over. "I did the best I could but the better player certainly won. MacFarlane is a marvel and if he continues as he played today he will win the match."

Evans played coolly after the turn, despite the handicap of five holes with which he started the second nine. MacFarland, who was a semi-finalists in the championship journey of 1912, fell off slightly and the American reduced his lead by one. The match ended at the sixteenth hole, however, with MacFarland 4 up and only two holes left.

MacFarland was given an enthusiastic ovation by the gallery and was immediately installed as favorite in the betting. Evans was cheered as he shook his opponent's hand and congratulated him upon the magnificent game he had played.

LAST YANKEE FALLS.

The last American in the tournament was eliminated when Captain C. K. Hutchinson defeated Harold Weber of Toledo 4 up and 3 to play.

Weber like Evans was defeated in the first nine holes. Captain Hutchinson's lead was entered from the Royal St. George's Golf Club, was 3 up at the turn. He made his victory certain by gaining a further lead of three in five holes of the second nine, which ended the contest.

Shortly after Weber was defeated another British star was eliminated by the defeat of H. D. Gillies of the Woking Golf Club. John Graham, Jr., of the Royal Liverpool Club, defeated Gillies, 2 up and 1 to play.

The defeat of Hilton by Blackwell was a shock to the British. The 1913 champion played a careful, steady game, but was not in as good form as in his previous matches. Blackwell was 1 up at the turn, and increased his lead by 1 more in eight holes of the second nine.

RIOTING AT KING'S PALACE

LONDON, May 21.—While leading an army of women upon Buckingham Palace, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the militant suffragettes, was arrested this afternoon. Her daughter Sylvia was alsolocked up.

Immediately after King George and Queen Mary arrived from Aldershot, where they have been for five days inspecting the great military establishment, the women gathered at Whitehall and moved toward Buckingham Palace.

They sent word ahead, demanding a personal interview with the King, while a petition had been prepared for presentation to the Queen. Their majesties, however, had stolen a march upon the suffragettes, for, instead of going direct to Buckingham Palace upon their arrival, they went to Marlborough House, the residence of Dowaker Queen Alexandra.

More than 2,000 policemen, detectives and soldiers were on duty in the streets and around the palace to prevent rioting. Home Secretary McKenna had sent word to the leaders of the women that King George would not receive them under any circumstances, but this did not deter them.

"If he won't see us we will see him" was the reply sent back to the home secretary.

As the army of women was moving along Constitution hill two policemen suddenly seized Mrs. Pankhurst and hurried her off to the police station. Mrs. Pankhurst's body guard of husky women, chosen for their courage and strength, gave an angry shout and attacked the policemen, but were dispersed with dishevelled hair and torn dresses.

Suddenly Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Pankhurst, dashed toward the palace gates with a detachment of women at her heels. She was surrounded by policemen and, after a hard fight, she was arrested.

GROUNDS SEARCHED.

The palace grounds were carefully searched for the fear prevailed that fanatics among the women might attempt to do the King bodily harm.

Following the arrest of Mrs Pankhurst a riot broke out on Constitution Hill. Mounted police tried to clear the streets, but the women formed themselves into a compact mob and fought savagely. The mounted police charged the mass of femininity smashing at the heads of the leaders with their heavy police batons. The yells of the enraged women drowned out the thuds of the truncheons as they fell with crushing force upon the heads and shoulders of the women.

Many women were knocked down and trampled. Some lay unconscious while the battle raged above their prostrate bodies.

Others were trampled by horses and carried insensible to the hospitals. Snorting, rearing horses, maddened by the tumult, dashed into the fringe of the mob, scattering women right and left.

Rum to Swampscott by Pony Express

The liquor dealers of Lynn learned today through a decision rendered by Judge Lummus that they cannot legally deliver liquor in Swampscott, a no-license town, unless they hold pony express licenses granted by the Swampscott Selectmen. The decision was rendered when Michael Dagness of Lynn was fined $50 on a charge of illegally transporting liquor to Swampscott.

VERA CRUZ GOVERNOR SAYS BRYAN HID FACTS OF KILLING

EL PASO, May 21.—The Federals have begun the evacuation of Saltillo, according to a telegram received at Constitutionalist headquarters in Juarez today from the front. General Villa's men have been bombarding Saltillo since last Friday.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Robert J. Kerr's denunciation of the "Parks outrage" whirled up a tempest of criticism of the State Department here today.

Kerr, who was appointed civil governor of Vera Cruz by Admiral Fletcher, and who held that post until General Funston arrived at Vera Cruz, declares that not only was Parks brutally murdered, but that the State Department was informed of the fact a week ago.

There was frequent comment that public indignation at the "Parks Outrage" might well block or hamper the mediation procedings.

SAYS BRYAN KNEW THE TRUTH.

Kerr, who talked with the President here a few days ago, said today:

"The Parks was not only shot by a Mexican firing squad, but his body was dismembered, mutilated and burned. Moreover, the information has been in possession of the administration at Washington for over a week, and I do not understand what purpose the administration could have in mind in suppressing it.

Mr. Kerr stated that his personal information about Parks came from an eye witness. This was a foreigner, not a Mexican, and he could not give his name on account of the danger to the individual.

Mr. Kerr said he could not understand why, the Secretary of State had for ten days given out vague statements of what he might do if satisfaction or apology or regrets or explanations or at least a report were not forthcoming about Parks.

"All this time the substance of this information has been in Washington and I know it," added Mr. Kerr.

Mr. Kerr said he was surprised to find on his arrival to what extent

Canal Board to Arrange for Formal Opening

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson today signed an executive order appointing the Panama Canal Commission a committee to arrange the program for the formal opening of the canal in January, 1915.

All the nations in the world will be invited to participate, and the greatest fleet of battleships ever assembled at one point will be sent through the locks.

Stop Watertown Liquor Delivery

A wholesale liquor dealer of Hanover street today attempted to deliver orders for seventeen kinds of intoxicating drinks in Watertown, where no pony express licenses are granted. Chief Lyons told the driver to take back everything to Boston. There were 150 gallons of whiskey on the team.

SWAMPSCOTT CHILD RUN OVER BY AUTO.
Six-year-old Josephine Pagnotti, daughter of Arnato Pagnotti of 52 King street, Swampscott, is at the Lynn Hospital suffering from internal injuries as a result of being run down by an automobile on Reddington street, Swampscott, operated by Christian S. Andye.

LYNN MAN DIES BY GAS.
James Tuttle, 55, of No. 19 Rockaway street, was found dead in his room early today with a gas tube in his mouth. He had been despondent since the death of his mother.

MILK DEALERS FINED IN BRIGHTON.
Two milk dealers were in the Brighton Court today and found guilty of violation of the milk laws. Alvin E. Berry of Ellison road, Waltham, paid a fine of $50, and a fine of $15 was imposed on Robert F. Parkinson of Brighton.

EVIDENCE IN BECKER TRIAL CLOSED; CASE TO JURY TOMORROW

NEW YORK, May 21.—Taking of testimony in the second trial of ex-Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal suddenly ended shortly before noon today. Only two witnesses were called during the morning, one by the defence and one by the State. The case will go to the jury tomorrow.

As soon as the State's witnesses had concluded Becker's attorney, Martin Manton, moved that the indictment be dismissed and the prisoner discharged on the ground of insufficient evidence. Justice Seabury denied the motion. The court then asked Mr. Manton if he was ready to begin summing up.

"I am not prepared," replied the lawyer, "and would ask that you give me two hours to get my notes together."

Justice Seabury granted the request and ordered a recess until 2 p. m., adding:

CHARGE TOMORROW.

"I shall allow three hours for the defence and three hours for the people. I will designate 8 as the hour for the people to begin their summing up. Tomorrow morning the court will charge the jury."

District Attorney Whitman surprised the defence by failing to call Sam Schepps as a witness. Becker turned to his counsel when Whitman announced he was through and said: "What's the matter? Why don't they put Schepps on?"

Mrs. Becker seemed to be pleased by the failure to call Schepps. She looked at her husband and smiled as if a great load had been lifted from her shoulders.

When court adjourned Becker was taken to the sheriff's office where he was joined by his wife and brothers. He sent out this word to the newspapermen:

BECKER CONFIDENT.

"I am positive the jury will acquit me. It is my belief that the people's case was weaker than that presented at the first trial. I am sure of acquittal."

Mr. Manton's explanation of the State's failure to call Schepps was this:

"We believe we could show that Schepps was an accomplice. We had a mass of questions to put to him and also to Moe Levy, the chauffeur who said he drove Webber and Schepps to the murder conference. They escaped a grilling."

Despite the stinging blows that have been delivered by the prosecution bets at even money are being freely made on the East Side that the alleged moral slayer of Herman Rosenthal will be acquitted.

WITNESSES VANISH.

When Attorney Manton announced that the defence rested he added: "I have subpoenaed three witnesses, Arthur York, James Thompson and James Keller, but they have disappeared. I, heretofore, ask leave to read into the minutes of the testimony they gave before the Grand Jury."

Justice Seabury called District Attorney Whitman and Mr. Manton up to the bench for a conference before ruling on the application.

York was expected to testify that "Bridgie" Webber did not meet Becker at the Murray Hill baths after the murder as has been testified by witnesses for the prosecution.

MARSHALL TESTIFIES.

The only witness called for direct examination today was Harford T. Marshall, one of Becker's lawyers. He was questioned by Attorney Manton in an attempt to corborrate the alleged conspiracy "framed up" by Becker's accusers while they were held at the West Side Prison. Marshall's testimony helped to strengthen that given by Jacob Reich, alias "Jack Sullivan," who was the chief witness called by the defence to prove that Becker was the victim of a "frame-up."

Marshall said Webber had never told him that Schepps and Vallon were on the running board of the murder car when it left the scene of the Rosenthal assassination. He was not allowed to tell the jury what "Jack Sullivan" had told him relative to the case.

Matthew Ryan, an attache of the West Side prison, denied Sullivan's story that the stay of Rose, Webber and Vallon and Schepps in that pall smacked of a wine party. He was the only witness in rebuttal, and his testimony was unimportant.

Middlesex "Ring" Fight in the House

Representative Mahoney of Cambridge led the fight for the bill to provide for an investigation of the Middlesex County "Ring" in the House today. He said:

"The people have no knowledge of county government. This has caused many evils to creep in. An investigation would help to clear up the matter and get the public in touch with our county administration. 'We cannot get back the money that was stolen last year, but the issue is one of economy."

Dartmouth Loses Two Star Athletes

Dartmouth's track team has received a severe setback, C. A. Pudrith, the discus thrower, and V. D. Rector, the jumper, both being lost, as injuries will prevent their competing in the New England Intercollegiate championships at the Stadium tomorrow. Pudrith is suffering from a wrenched knee, and Rector is out with a pulled tendon.

C. O. Olson will not represent the Green in the short dash, but Coach Harry Hillman expects to start him in the 220-yard event.

Ground Broken for Facotry in Roxbury

Ground was broken for the factory of the Holtzer-Cabot Electric Company on the old Amory Grove property in Amory street, Roxbury, today. The new building, which is to be five stories in height, will be ready for occupancy about the first of next January, and will employ about 1,000 persons.

House Rejects Trolley Bond Bill

Opposition led by Representative Naphen of Natick killed the bill to allow street railway corporations to issue bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness to an amount exceeding the capital stock by 20 per cent in the House today. The adverse vote was 27 to 64.

County Expense Bill Sidetracked

A bill to provide that Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop pay a part of the Suffolk County expenses was referred to the next legislature by the House today.

Conan Doyle Sails on American Trip

LONDON, May 21.—Another large throng left London bound to New York on the Olympic, among them Sir Arthur Conan Doyle on his first visit to the United States since 1894.

KLAW FLOODED BY APPEALS ON GAMING 'HAUL'

LONDON, May 21.—Marc Klaw, who is returning with Louis Dreyfus and T. B. Harms, had a laughable story regarding the reports that he had broken the bank at Monte Carlo.

"I have had a stenographer busy for two whole days," he said, "answering letters from all over Europe, called out by what I originally considered a harmless and amusing yarn about my fabulous winnings at Monte Carlo.

"One woman in the north of England, who has taken care of twin boys for twelve years, wrote asking me why I did not divide the $50,000 the papers said I had won between her two charges. She hadn't very much herself, and the twins were really very clever boys.

Another woman in Devonshire wrote that she had gone broke two years ago at Monte Carlo, but now had scraped together $1,000 and was going back. She must have my system, she said, to break the bank herself.

"Another woman, with a big title, wrote in the strictest confidence, asking the name of my candidate in the Derby. She said it was no matter to her what horse I named, she would play it, for she was convinced I couldn't pick a loser. I replied that my choice was Tetrarch, and I fear she will have to consult some other clairvoyant.

"The most amusing was a solemn demand made by a committee of a church in Surrey which stated gravely that the steeple had been destroyed by a wind storm, but could be repaired if I would contribute half of my 'illgotten gains.'

"So far as the theatrical situation is concerned, I am convinced that only Americans can bring money to the London theatres. Today, with hardly any exception, American plays are prospering, while there is not a single revue of which the success is not due to American artists."

Noise Drives Out the Supreme Court

Noise of riveting on the steel girders of the new City Club building has driven the seven members of the full bench of the Supreme Court from their consultation room in the lobby on the second floor on the Somerset street side of the court house. The members of the court now meet in the famous "mahogany" room on the east side of the building.

GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH FROM A HOTEL WINDOW

A young woman, who had registered as "Mary McLeod," leaped from the window of her room in the third floor of the Hotel Central in Green street, this noon, fracturing her skull. She died in the ambulance before it reached the Relief Hospital.

7 Families Flee Incendiary Fire in Lynn Apartment

The latest in the series of Lynn fires that are believed to be of incendiary nature drove seven families out of the Newhall apartments at No. 100 Newhall street. The blaze was discovered smouldering in a pile of rubbish under the stairs in the basement. The loss was estimated at $2,000.

Owing to the fact that the Newhall is in the centre of the residential district a second alarm was turned in as a precautionary measure. The residents of the building were assisted to the street by firemen and police officers.

PRINCESS HELD AS ARSONETTE; QUEEN IS ANGRY

LONDON, May 21.—Princess Mary has upset court circles with her latest escapade, which resulted in her arrest, by mistake, as a militant suffragette incendiary suspect. King George was moved to mirth by the incident, but Queen Mary is declared to be furious, both at her daughter and at the soldier who made the arrest. Princess Mary, who was badly frightened, is now able to smile over the adventure.

A soldier on sentry duty believed she was a suffragette about to set fire to the army aeroplane hangers at Aldershot, and arrested her while she was only trying to get a good snapshot.

When Princess Mary heard what she was being charged with she laughed and declared her identity, evidently expecting that that would be a sufficient answer.

Divorces Niece of Nat Herreshoff

NEW YORK, May 21.—Supreme Justice Morschauer of White Plains has granted the final decree of divorce to Luigi Masnada, in his suit against his wife, Sarah Lathrop Masnada, who was Sarah Lathrop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Francis Herreshoff and niece of Captain Nat Herreshoff, the famous yacht builder.

Why Cadum is Good for Skin Diseases

The important thing in treating many skin diseases is to keep water away from the inflamed parts and make the covering as air tight as possible. This, according to a very distinguished New York physician, seems to kill the germ and set up the healing process quickly. Cadum, the well-known skin remedy, supplies just kind of a cover, and keeps out the air. This covering consists of petrolatum and white wax, which Cadum contains. Two other ingredients of Cadum are zinc oxide, which dries up the water that comes from the sores, and oil of cade, which is one of the oldest and best known remedies for Eczema. Physicians everywhere employ oil of cade more often, perhaps, than any other one thing in treating Eczema. Cadum costs 10c for a trial box, while the 25c box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size.

'WILL LIVE ONLY FOR SON,' SAYS EVELYN NESBIT

NEW YORK, May 21.—"My life from now on shall be lived only for my little boy—for my Russell—and whatever atonement I have to make for the sins and sorrows of the past shall be wiped out if work and earnest desire to make this little son of mine grow to be a fine, strong, noble man can do it."

Evelyn Nesbit—she has given up permanently, she says, the name of Thaw—who has just returned to New York after a tour in the West and South that covered 25,000 miles, made this statement regarding her future:

"I have begun my work for my little boy's future by putting every dollar I can save in trust for him. Even if I cannot draw upon this fund no matter how badly I may need it. The conclusion to do this came to me on my western tour where I had days on trains to do nothing but think and get at the real purpose of my life as it is today.

"MADE WOMAN OF ME."

"Harry Thaw, when he cut off my allowance, did the best thing he ever did for me. It has made a woman of me.

"The more I think of Thaw the more the problem of the girl of the theatre comes. Johnnies who haunt the stage door are 'no good,' to use an expressive Americanism. If they were, they would not be hanging around a stage girl."

During her Western tour Miss Nesbit left her boy with her mother in a suburb of Pittsburgh. Yesterday her mother brought Russell to New York to see his mother. The child was filled with joy at the sight of her, and hugged and kissed her with the greatest affection.

"My little muvver back to Russell," he kept repeating.

In describing her experiences of arrest in Richmond for appearing in an immoral performance," Miss Nesbit laughed good-naturedly and said:

"I don't know where Judge Kelly of vaudeville fame is, but the judge in Richmond who tried my case was as much like him as two peas. When the several ministers appeared in court against me the dear old southern judge up and asked them their dealings and if they had seen my performance. They looked horrified that they should have seen the play, shaking their heads in disgust.

ADJOURNS THE COURT.

"Then you haven't seen the play? No, and you don't know, only from hearsay evidence, whether it is good or bad. Well, I understand,' continued the old Virginian, 'that Miss Nesbit is a beautiful woman—a very beautiful woman—and I think I'll take in the show myself tonight—court adjourned,' he added with a mighty swing of the gavel."

Gallivan Names West Point Boys

W. F. Stafford of No. 23 Clarkwood street, Dorchester, was today notified by Congressman Gallivan that he ranked first in the examination to fill a vacancy at West Point. The first alternate is William F. Kirkwood of No. 212 E street, South Boston; Thomas J. Donovan of No. 32 Clapp place, South Boston, was second alternate.

Charlesbank Site of Pumping Station

The city's pumping station, which is to be built as a part of the high pressure water system for fire fighting purposes, will be placed on the Charlesbank, according to Mayor Curley, who believes that site better than one near the Common or Public Garden.

Ida Von Claussen Guilty of Threat

NEW YORK, May 21.—Mrs. Ida Von Claussen, who once brought suit against Theodore Roosevelt, when President, charging that he prevented her being introduced to the King of Sweden, has been found guilty of sending a threatening letter to her former counsel, Charles Strauss.

Hub Company in 'Tristan and Isolde'

ROME, May 21.—The Boston Opera Company opened its Wagnerian season with "Tristan and Isolde," at the Theatre Champs Elysees. Isolde was sung by Miss Eva Van Der Osten, Tristan was sung by Peter Cornelius.

The opera scored a big hit.

$2,500,000 Insurance On Lambs in Train

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Lambs may gambol for the benefit of the public and their new club house, but they are not going to take any gambling chances on the hazards of travel. When the special train bearing the Lambs pulls out of the Pennsylvania depot next Saturday evening after the two All-Star Cabaets have been given at the Metropolitan Opera House here, it will carry the heaviest insurance of human freight that ever entrained in New York.

There will be about 700 of the star special Lambs aboard the train and blanket policies have been written to cover the tour for the next eight days. Each Lamb will be insured against accident at the rate of $25,000 a man, making the total policies considerably over $2,500,000.

Tailless Comet Seen in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 21.—A new comet has appeared in the northwestern sky. According to Professor Edward E. Barnard of the Yerkes observatory, the comet is burning up millions of miles of space. The comet has neither a name nor a tail, nor is its orbit known to astronomers.

Timilty Is Sued by Woman for Injuries

Miss Amy Lyons, of No. 45 Darling street, Roxbury, has filed a suit for $10,000 against Senator James F. Timilty of No. 5 Sumner place, Roxbury. Miss Lyons declares that last February she fell on property he owned and has been ill since.

Walsh Says State Is Aiding Jobless

BLAME FASHION AND DANCES FOR WHITE SLAVERY

CHICAGO, May 21.—Modern fashions and dances, moving picture shows, problem plays and impure literature are cited as the dominating causes of the extended social evil in America in a report on the white slave traffic presented for action today before the 126th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

The report was prepared by Paul R. Hickok, John Balcom Shaw, John Kennedy, Winfield Scott Hall and J. M. T. Finney and says in part:

"One of the reasons is the vulgar tendency of modern fashion. Many of our women are going to such extremes of dress as to shock even the least prudish, and open American womanhood to the charge of a complete forfeiture of modesty.

"Another contributory factor is the increasing craze for excitable and unchaste amusements. The dance, never perhaps, what could be wished, has become the subject of indescribably vulgar jokes, and is calling out the condemnation of may holding high places of ecclesiastical authority. The moving-picture shows are calculated to inflame the thoughts and emotions of the young.

"The theatre, with its outrageously flippant handling of sex problems is laying a net that most seduces and captures a considerable part of our rising generation.

"The literature of the day presents another very serious factor in this great problem. Nearly every work of fiction that is printed today has woven somewhere in its plot the intricacies of a sex question."

Senators Play at Mumble-the-Peg

WASHINGTON, May 21.—When the debate on the tolls question became dull and the first heat of early Summer oppressive, Senators Overman of North Carolina and Shilton of West Virginia stole out of the capitol, motored to a cool spot in Virginia and played mumble-the-peg. Mr. Chilton won, and Senator Overman, one of the neatest men in appearance in Congress, had to pull the peg from the ground with his teeth.

May Reopen Beilis Case on Plot Proof

PARIS, May 21.—Evidence showing that the ritual murder case against Beilis was manufactured deliberately may lead to the reopening of the famous Kiev case. Evidence from America has been supplied by a Russian woman named Adele Rawitsch, now living in Jersey City, which is said to indicate the real murderer.

ENGAGEMENT TO COST HAVERHILL TEACHER PLACE

HAVERHILL, May 21.—Miss Etta M. Gowan's engagement to marry may cost her he position as teacher in the local schools.

In an appeal to the School Board she failed to be re-elected after she had informed the board she intended to get married and wanted to teach. The case may be fought further.

The members of the School Committee have not said they intend to put the ban on married women teachers, but their action in the case of Miss Gowan's request leads the teachers to believe they have.

School teachers who marry, however, in all probability will be allowed to substitute, as good teachers are scarce here as in other cities.

Custom-House Men Have Pay Raised

Increases in salary of from $60 to $200 a year have been given to a dozen employes in the customs service in this city according to an announcement by Collector Edmund Billings. The news of the increases was a surprise coming the day after the announcement of several discharges in the service. Collector Billings declined to make public the names of those granted the increases

GAVE UP $20,000,000 FOR TROLLEY LINES WORTH BUT $8,000,000

1906 to bring about an adjustment of the Rhode Island trolley situation. He said:

"Senator Aldrich called on me to ascertain the cause for the breaking in the negotiations between the Rhode Island trolley interests and the New Haven. I told Mr. Mellen he promised to bring influence to bear to expedite the adjustment of the matter. This influence was not to be directed at the New Haven, but at the G. I. people."

Mr. Mellen referred to the United Gas & Improvement Company of Philadelphia, which controlled the Rhode Island trolleys.

Q.—When did Senator Aldrich call on you? A.—I don't remember exactly, but it was in the Summer of 1906, June, possibly May.

FOLK QUOTES RECORDS.

Q.—Did he write you a letter at any time concerning this matter? A.—I wouldn't say that he did not. I received millions of letters.

Q.—Have you any such letter in your possession? A.—Not that I know of.

Governor Folk then read the minutes of a meeting of New Haven directors held April 6, 1906, at which a committee consiting of Directors Brooker, Whittemore, Taft and Barney was appointed to deal with the N. Y., N. H. & H. Company in connection with the Rhode Island trolleys.

Q.—Do you recall that meeting? A.—No, but there undoubtedly was such a meeting.

Governor Folk next read the minutes of another New Haven directors meeting held June 8, 1906, at which the special committee which had been appointed in April submitted a report stating that the interests which controlled the Rhode Island trolleys desired by the New Haven also controlled a second line, and would not sell one without the other. The committee deemed it inadvisable to buy both lines and recommended that the project be dropped. Mellen explained following Folk's reading of this report that the two lines were a hundred miles apart and that only one would prove of any value to the New Haven.

It was understood that this difficulty was the one which Senator Aldrich offered to adjust by bringing pressure to bear upon the trolley people.

After Folk had read a number of letters concerning the deals between Aldrich and the New Haven, Mellen remembered that it "must have been about June 5, 1906" that he had first talked over the Rhode Island trolley deal with Senator Aldrich.

"I remember now," Mellen stated. "Aldrich was motoring through Connecticut and stopped at my house for about half an hour. I had forgotten the circumstance until you recalled it by these letters."

GAME OF "HOLDUP."

Folk read a number of minutes of the board of directors of the New Haven road relative to the purchase of the Rhode Island trolleys.

Mellen then stated that it was the aim of the New Haven to "clear up the trolley situation in New England and to eliminate some of the "wheels within wheels" which appeared to be clogging progress. The United Gas Improvement Company, Mellen said, tried to hold up the New Haven and force them to buy two trolley systems to get the one they wanted. The New Haven fought this arrangement, but finally lost out.

Q.—So the result of this transaction was that the Rhode Island trolleys, worth about $8,000,000, were acquired at an outlay of $20,000,000? A.—We paid $20,000,000, yes. I do not, however, agree with your statement of the value of the trolleys.

Q.—The physical valuation of the trolleys was $8,000,000, was it not? A.—Yes, but we paid also for prospects for the future.

Q.—In other words you paid $12,000,000 for a dream? A.—I don't think it was a bad dream.

Folk then led the witness into a technical examination of the units which comprised the Rhode Island trolley system and the capitalization per mile of this system. Mellen named the units and Folk tried to prove that the trolleys were capitalized at $250,000 a mile.

Mellen stated that the capitalization did not exceed $60,000 a mile. The difference between this figure and the one named by Folk, Mellen explained, rested on the fact that Folk had erred in including $8,000,000 spent for improvement and equipment in addition to other large sums of money which should not be charged to the capitalization of the road.

MELLEN EMPHATIC.

In giving this explanation the former president of the New Haven grew more emphatic than at any time during the hearing. He leaned forward in his seat and shook his finger toward Folk, concluding with the words: "To state the capitalization in the terms you have used is a tremendous fallacy, like many other fallacies which have crept into this investigation."

SEES FEDERAL CONTROL.

Mellen stated that members of the board of directors assisted him to acquire the Rhode Island trolleys, and that he never knew of any railroad deal that was not put through by influence.

Q.—Do you think it wise for one road like the New Haven to control so many others? A.—Control has got to be in large units or else the government must control the railroads. Governmental control is sure to come. I think I was unconsciously working toward that end when I built up the system in New England.

Q.—How many men did you employ on your system? A.—About 225,000.

Fore River Works Man Badly Beaten

Samuel Dubrow of Massachusetts avenue, Quincy Point, inspector of reamers at the Fore River ship yards, is at his home suffering from a bad gash over his right eye and bruises over his body, as a result of a beating he received today while on his way to work. A strike is in progress among the reamers at the yard and Dubrow claims that the three men who attacked him were some of the strikers. The police are working on the case.

Millionaire Is Hod Carrier in Strike

SOUTH NORWALK, Ct., May 21.—General Russell Frost, former commander of the Connecticut National Guard, forme representative and millionaire, knows what it is to carry the hod. When the helpers to the masons working on his new hotel here went out on strike today, leaving the building chimneyless, General Frost and McMahon, his contractor, personally shouldered hods and supplied the bricks until the job was completed.

It Makes a Lot of Difference What You Steal From the B. & M.

Here's what happens to you if you steal a ride on the New Haven-B. & M. system:

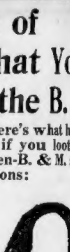
HAVERHILL, May 21.—Five men, all cleanly dressed and apparently educated and respectable, were sentenced to jail in the local court by Judge Wason for stealing a ride on a B. & M. freight train. The men were George Gilmore of Boston, Edward and George W. Charlton of Somerville, James F. Daley of Brockton, and Charles F. Durgin of Watertown. They were given thirty days each.

All five told the Court they were not tramps. Edward Charlton had a letter to prove he was about to return to work for the railroad. The men said they had to steal a ride to reach a city where they could find work.

Lockup Keeper Rainville declared the men the most refined and respectable he ever had to put in a cell.

The B. & M. agent asked for a heavy penalty. His request was granted.

Here's what happens to you if you loot the New Haven-B. & M. system of millions:



BROKER DOW MUST SERVE PRISON TERM

Stephen R. Dow, the Boston stock broker who was found guilty more than a year ago of converting $229,000 belonging to mining companies to his own use, must go to prison to serve an eight to twelve-year sentence. The full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court today overruled Dow's exceptions taken during his trial in the Suffolk Superior Court.

Dow was sentenced by Judge Brown on March 19, 1913. The jury had convicted him of twenty-four counts of conversion of funds. Since that time Dow has been at liberty under $25,000 cash bonds and a stay of sentence, pending action by the Supreme Court.

This appeal to the Supreme Court was Dow's last resort. His exceptions took up more than 400 typewritten pages and covered a large part of the testimony against him, the closing argument of the district attorney and the failure of the court to rule in various instances as he had requested.

Dow was found guilty of converting $83,000 of the funds of the Algomah Mining Company, $51,000 of the Indiana Mining Company and $105,000 of the Franklin Mining Company. He was president of all of these companies.

Gets Year in Prison for Beating Woman

Luigi Villejuan, nineteen years old, who recently came to this city from Italy, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction by Associate Justice Ahern in Roxbury court today. He was charged with assaulting Mrs. Marie Mazzuchelly, a widow, sixty years old, of No. 84 Burrell street, Roxbury with a file when she refused to rent him a room.

Boston Federal Bank Certificate Filed

The National Shawmut Bank today notified its New England correspondents that the organization certificate of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston has been duly filed, and that the subscribing banks in the New England district thus automatically become member of banks with the right to operate under the currency act.

WOMEN CLUBS TO TRY PARCELS POST MARKET

WORCESTER, May 21.—At this second day session of the convention of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs reports of the year's work in the departments of Education, Home Economics, Industrial and Social Conditions, Legislation and Public Health were read.

Mrs. Schuyler F. Herron of Winchester, reporting the work of the Home Economics Department, announced that the federation will investigate the practicability of marketing by parcels post. She said:

"The sub-committee on food sanitation has placed special emphasis on clean food, clean shops and bakeries, pure milk and the care of food in the home. Food sanitation will receive its full share of time and attention during the coming year. The subject is an important one and so closely connected with the health of the family that it cannot will be neglected."

Among the subjects to receive special consideration next year are the Visiting Housekeeper, Marketing by Parcel Post, Co-operative Buying, Spending in Relation to the Family, and Education for Home-Making. The home-maker of today should realize more and more that she is helping to solve important social and economic problems and that in order to make her work effective she must bring to it scientific as well as practical knowledge."

Oldfield to Quit Autos for Airships

NEW YORK, May 21.—Barney Oldfield is to give up automobile racing and become a loop-the-loop aviator. This announcement was made by Oldfield soon after he arrived here this afternoon for his races with Lincoln Beachey at Brighton Beach for three days, beginning today. He said:

"I have been before the public as an automobile racer for nearly thirteen years, but I know a new game is due. Beachey has promised to turn me out a full-fledged upside-down flyer within three months, and I shall drive my last racing exhibition in July."

REVERE GIRL, 16, ROBBED OF PAY TAKES POISON

"Farewell, cruel world," said sixteen-year-old Mary Corellis in the presence of her sister Minnie at their home on Eastern avenue, Revere, and then Mary swallowed three corrosive sublimate tablets. A few minutes later while waiting for a physician to come she added:

"Comb my hair and make me look pretty, because I know I'm going to die."

The girl didn't die. She was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital for observation after a stomach pump had been used by a physician at her home. It was reported that she was not in a dangerous condition.

According to the sister, Minnie, who is twelve, the would-be suicide had heard she was to be put in the House of the Good Shepherd.

"I'll kill myself before I consent to go into an institution," the older sister declared.

"Mary works at a candy factory," said the younger sister today. "Tuesday was her pay day. A couple of her girl friends asked her to go out to Forest Hills with them. She took her pay along with her. The girls urged her to take a drug they had. Mary did so and in a few minutes she had become dazed. When she came to she had been robbed. Her girl friends had gone.

"Mary was taken to the Chardon Street Home over night and the next morning my brother brought her home. We intend to find out who those girls were that robbed Mary."

"There was talk of putting Mary in the House of the Good Shepherd and it was this that led her to take the tablets."

JUDGE LENIENT WITH RIOTERS OF WAKEFIELD

When Wakefield strike cases were brought before him in Malden District Court today Judge Bruce told I. W. W. members to do their own thinking. He said:

"The trouble with you people is that you don't do your own thinking. You let other people think for you. You do as they tell you. That's why you get into trouble. Use your heads herafter."

Out of seventeen defendants, charged with disturbing the peace or assault and battery, the cases of fourten were continued to May 29 at request of Caleb Howard, the I. W. W. organizer, who said they wished time to get counsel.

Three others, Dominic Columbo, John Gallardi and Louis Luciano, were put on probation until June 29 and were ordered to keep away from strike troubles.

Judge Bruce said that he was lenient because he realized they were out of work and probably had no money to pay fines.

A SCIENTIFIC WAY TO REMOVE UNSIGHTLY HAIR

Apply a few drops of El Rado, the liquid hair remover, on the growth; after washing off with a little plain water not a trace of it will remain. The ingredients in El Rado are used by many physicians for exactly the same purpose, which proves conclusively how perfectly harmless it is.

This wonderful preparation is the result of a long series of scientific experiments, and is proving a veritable godsend to women troubled with hair growths on lip, chin, cheek, neck or arms. Use a simple application of El Rado to saturate the hair; it is harmlessly dissolved, and in a few moments is gone, leaving the skin smooth, clear and velvety. The action of El Rado is absolutely safe, sure and thorough.

El Rado is coming to be regarded by society women as far superior to any cream or toilet powder. Try it on your arm; prove for yourself its surprising merits. Regular 50c and $1 sizes, sold by all leading drug and department stores or direct from the El Rado Mfg. Co., New York. Valuable information sent on request. —ADVERTISEMENT.

Sale of Men's $25 to $40 Spring and Summer Suits $17.50

Right at the height of the season, with June just around the corner and Memorial Day but a week away—do you wonder we consider tomorrow's men's suit event the best news of the season.

One month ago we plunged into the task of providing for friends of the Filene Men's Shops, or those yet to get acquainted, values as extraordinary as those which swept the boards clear just one year ago.

And RIGHT PLANNING, RIGHT CONDITIONS and RIGHT CO-OPERATION from three makers who stand on the top rungs of the clothing ladder have made possible values which we doubt can be equalled again this season.

ROOSEVELT JUMPS BACK TO POLITICS; 'READY TO FIGHT' NOW

NEW YORK, May 21.—Colonel Roosevelt did not lose a moment reentering the political fray, despite his enfeebled health, due to his exposure in the Brazilian jungles.

He ran over from Oyster Bay today following a conference with Gifford Pinchot at Sagamore Hill. Neither Colonel Roosevelt nor Mr. Pinchot would discuss their interview. Neither would venture an opinion on the campaign this Fall.

Until Pinchot arrived the Colonel was as light-hearted as a schoolboy on vacation. Even his conference with George W. Perkins, chairman of the National Progressive Executive Committee, had no effect upon the colonel's buoyancy.

But Pinchot's report on the ravaged lines of the Progressive army in Pennsylvania caused the Colonel to cease talking about the mysteries of Brazil.

READY TO FIGHT.

This much was learned. Upon his return from Europe Colonel Roosevelt will cast himself into the fray with a vigor unprecedented even in his strenuous career. He will campaign New York, Pennsylvania, the Pacific Coast and the South like a whirlwind.

"I'm ready to fight now," he said today. "All I need is to see the foe."

"Suppose, Colonel," he was asked, "that the Republican party adopts the essential planks of the Progressive party platform. Would you accept the Republican nomination?"

"I have nothing to say now regarding the political future," replied the colonel. "It is useless to question me."

"What does Mr. Pinchot's small vote in the Pennsylvania primaries suggest? What do you think of Penrose's 4 to 1 preponderance of votes?"

"I have not learned sufficient about Pennsylvania to talk about that," came the colonel's reply.

DENOUNCES FREE TOLLS.

The Colonel repeated his denunciation of President Wilson's desire to exclude American coastwise ships from free use of the Panama Canal. He repeated what he told the AMERICAN in the exclusive interview in Brazil—that he thought President Wilson's attitude indefensible.

"I am opposed to the surrender of the Panama Canal. I cannot repeat that too often."

Now that he Colonel has girded up his loins preparatory to carrying the battle through the country, it is assured Sagamore Hill will emerge as the Bull Moose leaders from far and near.

E. A. Van Valkenberg and "Bill" Flynn, leaders of the Progressives in Pittsburgh, are expected in Oyster Bay.

Dean Lewis, Progressive candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania, and Walter Brown, Progressive National Committeeman from Ohio, also are looked for.

INDIANS WITH RED HAIR FOUND BY ROOSEVELT

By JOHN S. PRATT.

NEW YORK, May 21.—In putting the Rio Duvida, now the Rio Roosevelt, on the map Colonel Roosevelt's party encountered more than the deadly jungle and starvation. An ingrown foe was the voracious tropical gnat and the fever-carrying mosquito.

During the entire trip Colonel Roosevelt fought the twin enemy. The mosquito is always ready to transmit a sickening fever that lingers for years.

Tropical ants, many an inch long, never seem to sleep. They ate up socks, underwear and even shoes. They devoured the laces of Colonel Roosevelt's high boots. They ate the bottom of his canvas helmet so that the top flopped as he paddled his canoe. Hornets slipped through a hole in his hat and stung him.

While Leo Miller, the Indianapolis naturalist, slept, ants ate the net thrown over his hammock. As the party paddled the Duvida, alligators and piranha, the latter a man-eating fish, regarded them sullenly. It was dangerous to risk bathing with the piranha near.

Among the three Indian tribes found by the explorers, the Paracis, Panates and Nhambiquaras, not the slightest show of hostility was manifested. Two Panates, one a man and the other a squaw, had fiery red hair, an uncommon thing among Indians.

For clothes the men of the Paracis tribe sometimes wore trunks and sash. The women affected loose drapery half way to the knees from the waist. The children went nude.

Usually an Indian has two wives and occasionally a squaw may have two husbands. The squaws are generally content with one husband. When an Indian brave steals the squaw of another the offended husband does not rest until he has put an arrow into the traducer's heart.

The Nhambiquaras Indians unlike the two other tribes pierce their upper lips and the nose through with feathers. The two projecting ends meet over the tip of the nose making a cross.

Roosevelt came upon Jaguars and had many a thrilling exploit. The Jaguar was the biggest sized animal he found.

VATERLAND IN; UNMANAGEABLE AT THE DOCKS

NEW YORK, May 21.—The new Hamburg-American liner Vaterland, the greatest ship afloat, became unmanageable today when she attempted to dock at the company's piers at Hoboken. The tugs that were guiding her were pulled about like infants by a giant and the vessel had to be taken a mile down the Hudson River to prevent her smashing into the pier. The total number of persons on the ship was 2,958.

The Vaterland made an average run of about 24 miles. On board her were the directors of the line. The days runs were 421, 575, 562, 580, 591 and 442 knots. Dock Commissioner Hedley went to quarantine and boarded the steamer in response to an invitation to inspect the giantess. The Vaterland is a sister ship of the Imperator. The immensity of her measurements are shown by the following figures: Tonnage, 54,000; length, 950 feet; beam (width), 100 feet; horsepower, 65,000; speed, 25 knots an hour.

In addition to being the last word in luxury the Vaterland was constructed to be unsinkable. Her bulkheads are of steel, and she has two "skins," so that if the outer hull is punctured the water will be kept out of the hold by the inner wall. In addition to being unsinkable, the Vaterland is fireproof. The big ship was decorated with flags as she slowly steamed up the bay and her sirens occasionally answered the chorus of whistles and fog horn bursts of welcome.

The cargo consisted of 2,316 barrels, of which 2,066 was beer and the balance salt.

Among the passengers were the Rt. Hon. Alexander Carlisle, designer of the Titanic; Admiral Oscar Von Trupel of the German navy; ex-U. S. Senator Nelson W. Aldrich and Edgar Allen Forbes, the author.

State Grange Meets at Faneuil Hall

'TEDDY AND I IN SAME BOAT,' SAYS DOC COOK

"Ex-President Roosevelt is in the same boat with me," declared Dr. Frederick A. Cook, North Pole explorer in commenting today, in Boston on the discovery of the River Doubt by the former president.

"Just as soon as a man comes back from an exploring expedition the arm chair scientists immediately start an academic tango attempting to discredit every discovery."

Dr. Cook is making a tour of New England to place his North Pole case before the public and came to Boston today. The explorer states that New England is a strong Peary district and he is anxious to reach the people here. He will distribute blanks among his audiences so that the people can petition their Congressmen to have the Cook-Peary controversy reopened.

"Senator Poindexter is endeavoring to bring my case before the Senate and I have the assurance of the support of many members of the House," declared Dr. Cook.

The explorer will give his first lecture tonight before the members of the St. Alphonsus A. A., Roxbury.

TO SAVE EYES

In the Object of This Free Prescription—Try It If Your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to, the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use:

2 grains Optona (1 tablet).
2 ounces Water.

Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Optona system bathe the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use. It is good for the eyes and contains no ingredient which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Any druggist can fill this prescription promptly. Try it and know for once what real eye comfort is.

Beautiful vocal selection on reverse side of every record.

OF COURSE YOU DON'T YOURSELF BUT SOME DO

The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Massachusetts Public Service Commission have gone "in cahoots" in joint effort to discourage those people who like to hold "Marathon talks" over the phone.

The "Marathon talker" glues himself—or more often herself—to the phone and chatters by the hour with an intimate friend.

This is all right when each person is using an individual or one-party line. But on two, three or four-party lines this monopoly of the phone keeps other subscribers from talking. All the others can do it to gnash their teeth and wait and listen—if they get any fun out of the last.

The record for "telephone hogging" in the eastern part of the country is held by a man in Elizabeth, N. J., who held a party line eight solid hours while he and a friend played chess over the phone.

But plenty of Boston housewives talk for one or two hours, or more, at a stretch, telling some bosom friend all the news.

WHEN WOMEN TALK.

For instance, Mrs. Blank calls up Mrs. Dash at 9:30 a. m. and the following conversational piffle ensues:

That you Kath, this is Gladys.

Hello, Dear, how——

No-listen a minute, I must tell you —I was on my way down town yesterday afternoon to get my hat changed, you know I told you that the purple cherries on the left side simply killed the effect and though I did think at first that they would go well enough and the girl declared I looked perfectly sweet in it, but you never can believe what they say to you until you've brought it home and tried it on, and John laughed at it and was just horrid—but I was going to say that on the way down I met Mrs. Brown, and what do you think, she and her husband had a perfectly awful fight just because he found out that she had ordered a new dining room set sent home when he thought that the old oak one that his mother bought thirty years ago was plenty good enough and she—I mean Mrs. Brown, not his mother—had found a perfect duck of a mahogany set in an antique shop, such dear laddderback chairs—so interesting, as the man said—and a darling table, with straight legs and a little bow like the best ones are—the table, I mean, Dear, not the legs—and all the man wanted was $175 for the table and four chairs, and she needn't pay but fifty down and the rest when she finds it convenient. She paid $25 and promised the other $25 today, and the man said he would have the set sent right up, and Mr. Brown swore and said he'll send it back, and she had a nervous spell and couldn't go to a bridge whist party she'd been invited to that evening, which most broke her heart.

"AND OH, DEAR ME."

"Oh, yes ,she'll get the new dining room set, but she said that her husband says they can't go away for only two weeks this summer and she knows a lovely new place to go to—somewhere in the mountains. She's going to write tomorrow and reserve accommodations for six weeks and he will have to find the money somehow because she says that she simply has got to get away through the hot weather, what with the house to look after and her nerves, and so much trouble with her clothes and all that she simply couldn't stay at home through July and—listen—and—No! You don't say—well, you know what I allways said, that Mollie didn't really seem to care so much for the other one—you know who I mean—that Alston fellow—so she's finally decided to take Jim, even though he isn't getting very much money now, but he hopes to get a good raise when the old man dies who is now in charge of the department. Perhaps Jim will get his raise this Summer, which would be lovely, wouldn't it? I am sure that Jim will make Mollie a good husband if she manages him right, as he isn't jealous and hasn't any relatives to speak of in this part of the country and Mollie says she knows he won't object to her having all the company she likes when they get housekeeping and—what—what!—

"I will NOT—well, of all the impudence—Kath, did you hear that man tell me to hire Mechanics Hall and give a lecture, just as though I couldn't talk over my own telephone —wasn't he fresh—well, dear, what was I saying—Oh, yes—Mollie needn't have a big wedding, you know, and they can get a dear little flat for $50 a month to start—"

Do you wonder the N. E. T. & T. Co. and the Mass. Pub. Serv. Comm. are trying to do something about it?

Makes Unsightly Hairs Quickly Disappear

(Beauty Culture)

A smooth, hairless skin is possible for every woman if she uses a depilatone paste to remove the ugly hairs. This simple treatment quickly banishes all hair or fuzz and leaves the skin firm and spotless. The paste, made by mixing water with powdered delatone, is applied to the skin for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. No harm results from this treatment, but care should be used to see that you get delatone in an original package. —ADVERTISEMENT.

Munich Teacher Is Here After Wealthy Wife and Position

Herr Von Zabuesnig, twenty-five, graduate of the University of Munich and teacher of languages, is at a Boston hotel looking for a position and a wealthy wife. He declared:

"The woman I marry must be fair to the eye and she must have money. There is a charm about the American women that is beautiful to see. I shall go from here to Philadelphia. That is, unless I get the job and the wife here. But of course the job's the thing. However, I do not fear great difficulties here. But the feminine side of the question is a different matter."

WOMAN IN BAD CONDITION

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Montpelier, Vt.—"We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would bloat. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me."—MRS. MARY GAUTHIER, 21 Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

An Honest Dependable Medicine.

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and today hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to any of the women whose testimonial letters we are constantly publishing. They will tell you their experience and give you confidence to try the medicine.

KERR CHARGES MANY OUTRAGES IN MEXICO ARE KEPT SECRET

news and information sent up through official channels had been suppressed.

"I am compelled to wonder," said Mr. Kerr, "whether the suppression of facts by the Administration is not because it fears that if all the facts that we know in Mexico were known by the American public it would lose such support as it now has for its Mexican policy—at least to a large degree."

Referring to the attitude of Americans in Mexico Mr. Kerr was emphatic. He said:

"Ask them what American citizenship is worth in Mexico—how they felt about being left by their own government to be rescued by Germany and English ships or consuls.

"If you only could ask the army and navy! They don't talk for publication. They won't talk in public. But when they do express their minds about the vacillating and wobbling uncertainty of the government which has already cost many American lives and will cost many more, the temperature even of Vera Cruz seems cool by comparison."

MEDIATION HINGES ON DIVISION OF LAND

By LAWRENCE TOD,
Special staff correspondent of the AMERICA.

MEDIATION HEADQUARTERS, Clifton Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ont., May 21.—Opening of the mediation negotiations here today found the Mexican peace problem as much confused as ever. None of the attaches would predict the course of representatives of the Huerta administration. That they would fight doggedly any proposal that the great estates throughout their country be broken up and the peons given the land, as demanded by President Wilson, was regarded as certain, however.

This seemed the logical attitude for men identified with the Clericifico of the southern republic. Yet no one watching these silent, self-contained delegates of the Huerta government could say what they would propose as an alternative or a better solution of the chaos beyond the Rio Grande. If they have definite proposals for securing harmony in Mexico except by force of arms they have not divulged them to anyone since they came under the protection of the Union Jack.

DIVISION OF LAND.

"Eliminate Huerta and divide the land among the people," is the demand that came with the American representatives. Over the direct wire from the White House to the scene of the conference has come no hint that this demand will be compromised. President Wilson calls for an economic revolution in Mexico as a cure for revolution by arms.

The stubborn man in Mexico City is believed to be preparing to leave his office, but refuses to concede that his whole party and class shall resign its power. On this rock he will rally all that are left in his domain who believe that the great estates should continue and that the peons should own none of the soil.

Today brought the first real test of the mediation proceedings. The American representatives talked with the Argentine and Brazilian mediators, reviewing with them the situation as seen by the American government. With William Suares of Chile, the third mediator, present today the ground was gone over informally with the Mexicans. Next will come the formal conferences.

ELIMINATION OF HUERTA.

It is generally understood that the elimination of Huerta will be the first item to be considered. As the negotiations began the position of Argentina, as leader in the movement to make the republics of South America co-equal with the United States in determining the affairs of the Western Hemisphere, became hourly more evident.

Minister Naon is the soul of the conference. While he yields to Ambassador De Gama of Brasil as the diplomat of higher official rank who is entitled to preside at the conference, he is by no means second in activity and enthusiasm.

Senor Naon is throwing his whole soul into this mediation. He looks upon this as an hour of destiny in which his nation is arriving at a world power. From it he believes will come a new self reliance not only to the citizens of Argentina, but to every South American.

REFUGEE DESCRIBES SLAYING OF HOADLEY BY MEXICAN BANDITS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Nearly a score of American, English and other refugees from Mexico arrived here on the Pacific Mail steamship Newport. The refugees, among them United States Consul Clemont S. Edwards, stationed at Acapulco, and Walter M. Neal, general manager of the El Favor silver mines, State of Jalisco, brought thrilling tales of their adventures escaping from the war-ridden country.

Neal, weak and wasted from wounds, described the killing of G. E. Williams, an Englishman, and A. S. Hoadley, an American, at El Favor on April 23, news of whose death has been carried in previous dispatches.

"We were attacked by bandits as we were eating dinner," he said. "The bandits broke into the cyanide plants, carrying off 20,000 pesos worth of bullion. We pursued them into an arroyo. There Williams and Hoadley were surrounded and on surrendering were stabbed to death.

"A mob of natives congregated about the company stores and I was parleying with them when I was set upon and stabbed five times. Federal soldiers rescued us."

HUERTA CALLED FOR URRUTIA'S DEATH OVER PUBLIC TELEPHONE

VERA CRUZ, May 21.—President Huerta in his drunken rages issues orders by the public telephone for the execution of his foes. This was revealed today when Dr. Aurelano Urrutia, former minister of the interior, told of his escape from the capital.

Urrutia was given his place in Huerta's cabinet because he saved the President from blindness by an operation after other surgeons had declared he must lose his sight.

Huerta was in the El Globe cafe last Saturday night and as usual had been drinking cognac steadily," said Urrutia.

"Suddenly he began to curse me and declared I annoyed him. Finally in his drunken anger he went to the public telephone, called up General Blanquet and told him I must be killed that night. I had friends among the crowd in the cafe. One went to a nearby telephone and warned me. I had been expecting something of the kind for some time and immediately sent my family to the railroad station.

"In order to have a better chance of escape I took an automobile and went in it to Guadaloupe. It was lucky I did so for I later learned that members of the secret service were on guard at the railroad station to prevent my escape. Huerta was angry at me because I had insisted he keep his pledge and retire from office to end the revolution and prevent invasion by the Americans."

TWO GENERALS ARE KILLED BY VILLA; REBELS AT PAREDON

JUAREZ, Mex., May 21.—The Federal Generals, Miguel Alvares and Ignacio Munox, were killed in the battle of Paredon and two other Generals and many Federal officers were executed by the Constitutionalists after the battle, according to a copy of an official telegram from General Villa to General Carranza.

The official report says:

"It is known that Generals Miguel Alvares and Ignacio Munos fell in the combat. General Osorno and a good number of Federal officials were executed."

Regarding the fight at Zertuche, the report says in part:

"There was captured also a General and thirty-two officials who composed his staff. All were executed immediately."

Villa at the head of 4,000 Constitutionalists defeated 4,500 Federals who were retreating from Monclova at Paredon.

The Constitutionalists lost sixteen killed and twenty-nine wounded. The Federal casualties were twenty-nine killed and more than eighty wounded. The Constitutionalists captured 900 prisoners, nine pieces of artillery, 1,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, a large quantity of artillery ammunition and a large supply of provisions, in addition to five troop trains which carried the Huerta soldiers.

VOLUNTEERS RAISED TO DEFEND CAPITAL, CHEER THE DICTATOR

MEXICO CITY, May 20 (via Galveston) May 21.—(Delayed in transmission).—President Huerta was given a splendid ovation today when he reviewed the volunteers organized to repulse attack of the Constitutionalist forces.

This was influenced by formal announcement from the National Palace that there was no truth in the reports that his resignation had been tendered to the delegates sent to the mediation conferences in Canada. The city is in complete accord with his declaration on this point.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The foregoing dispatch received from the Mexico City correspondent of the AMERICAN indicates that Huerta has still a strong hold on the patriotic spirit of the Mexicans. It conflicts sharply with reports taken by American refugees to Vera Cruz who have declared that Huerta is steadily losing strength. This may be explained in part by the fact that all dispatches from Mexico City are censored.

WASHINGTON BETS TWO TO ONE THAT MEDIATION FAILS

By WILLIAM NELSON TAFT.
Staff Correspondent of the American at the White House.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—With the execution of private Parks at Vera Cruz now accepted as a certainty and hope for the safety of Vice-Cousul John R. Silliman practically abandoned, military officials in Washington with a propensity of dallying with chance today were offering to bet two to one against the successful issue of the mediation conferences at Niagara Falls. Intervention by the United States was quoted in some circles at even money.

Victoriano Huerta's emphatic statement that he will not resign the provisional presidency has strengthened the belief here that the present status is more than likely to undergo a sudden change for the worse and that the peace negotiations probably will be wrecked on the first proposal submitted to the parties concerned.

Diplomats and army and navy officers in Washington are united in the belief that hostilities must come eventually.

The administration's strictly enforced censorship of the news of the Mexican situation is viewed by many as part of the program to keep the country's war plans entirely secret until it becomes necessary through the failure of mediation or some further aggressive act on the part of the dictator to bring Huerta to a final reckoning.

ALL THE AMERICAN WARSHIPS TO REMAIN IN MEXICAN WATERS

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced today that all the American warships now in Mexican waters would be held there. This caused surprise, as plans had been made yesterday to withdraw four of the vessels. The secretary would give only this explanation:

"Under the present conditions I do not think it will be advisable to withdraw any of the American warships from Mexican waters."

Seumas MacManus Mistaken for Thief

NEW YORK, May 21.—Seumas MacManus, noted author of Irish stories, who likes to write of mistaken identities, was locked up for two hours in Plainfield, N. J., because a policeman thought he was a burglar. Patrolman Thomas Flatley saw the author pacing up and down among the trees in front of his boarding house, and asked him a question. The author tried out some of his caustic Irish wit upon the patrolman, but Flatley didn't see the joke. Flatley later withdrew the burglary charge, but accuses MacManus of calling him a "fool," which is disorderly conduct.

MUTT AND JEFF TELL LOVE TALE OF THEIR BOSS

TIME—This afternoon.
SCENE—Behind the scenes.
JEFF—Hey, Mutt, watch the Boss over in the wings.
MUTT—Say, you little pestiferous pinhead you piece of Pimento you, ain't you on? He's watchin' his wife's act.
JEFF—Aw, but all they the young lovers, always on the same bill and always applauding one another. Say Mutt, how does it feel to be in love?
MUTT—Quit your yapping. Just watch the Boss and you'll learn.

For 267 times—by actual count, 267—Harry Conway Fisher has stood in the wings of the big vaudeville theatres of the country and watched Miss Pauline Welch's act.

For exactly 267 times Miss Pauline Welch has stood in the wings of the big vaudeville houses of the country and watched Mr. Harry Conway Fisher's act.

Mr. Harry Conway Fisher is none other than Bud Fisher, the "Boss" of Mr. Mutt and Mr. Jeff, all of whom you all know.

Miss Pauline Welch is none other than Mrs. Bud Fisher, the boss of the "Boss" of Messrs. Mutt and Jeff.

Mr. Bud Fisher let it be known today that he thinks Mrs. Bud—stage name, Miss Welch—is the greatest singing comedienne on any stage anywhere.

It goes without saying that Mrs. Bud thinks equally highly of her husband.

GREATEST EVER.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Conway Fisher —that's the way the hotel register has it—and Mr. Mutt and Mr. Jeff are in Boston for a week's vaudeville. The latter pair just follow Mr. Bud along as necessary baggage. Everybody knows what Mutt and Jeff think of their "Boss." Now let Mr. Bud tell what he thinks of his "Boss":

"She's just the grandest little wife that ever drew breath. She's a regular Georgia peach—born in Atlanta, you know. We love each other more than I can tell you, and we're still on our honeymoon—"

(Here the mischievous little Mr. Jeff whispered: "Yes, but there's the real original mutual admiration society, all right, all right. Never saw such lovers.")

"And," continues Mr. Bud, "she's the greatest actress living. She has the best singing and dancing act in vaudeville. And she's the most beautiful woman on the stage. And she's the greatest favorite now playing. I admit that myself. You ge—"

(Again the shy Jeff: "Ask him about their romance—it's never been printed.")

MET AT HAMMERSTEIN'S.

"Our romance? Oh, yes, I don't mind telling you," assented Mr. Bud. "I was at Hammerstein's up in New York. She was rehearsing for 'The New Partner.'

"On the day before she was to leave to open up in Chicago, I begged her to set the date—and to please make it soon. The next morning we were married at City Hall."

(This time it was Mutt: "Let me expain that the Boss didn't appear at Hammerstein's again for that booking ner did his 'Boss' take that trip to Chicago—" "Shut up, you," came from Jeff, "let our boss tell it.")

"And that same morning, as I was going to say, we took a steamer for Bermuda for our honeymoon.

"And we've been sailing together happy as two birds ever since. I didn't want her to return to the stage, but after our honeymoon we decided to get back into vaudeville. We made the rigid condition with the managers that she and I would always appear on the same bill, and usually our acts are right together.

GOING TO LONDON.

From the wings I always watch her act, and it is the greatest thing ever. She always watches me too. For 267 performances this season we've done that, she and I. This week at Keith's in our last, and we're going back to New York to honeymoon some more. In June we will sail for London for an eight weeks' engagement at the Palace there."

Miss Welch is well known to playgoers, just as her husband is known to millions for his inimitable comics.

Miss Pauline Welch, Mrs. "Bud" Fisher, off the stage, who always works on the same bill with her artist husband and is "Boss" of the boss of Mutt and Jeff.

In her act Miss Welch sings a song that is dedicated to Mr. Bud. Fact is, he wrote the words himself, but you must understand that's strictly sub rosa. Here are some of the lines:

I was crazy over art, such an matter was my [illegible]
I'm sure saving all my salary, just to buy a picture gallery.
Then I met a fellow who
Said he was an artist true;
You should see the things he drew—
He drew me clean to him.
To classic art he introduced me, and died
And drew me dead to Mutt and Jeff—that's
That's art, real art, the art that tickles me,
The art that tickles my heart.

"And there," chorus Mutt and Jeff, standing back of their Boss in the wings, "you have the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

Bryan Holds Up 'Humiliating Treaty' With Colombia

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Secretary Bryan's treaty with Colombia, by which he seeks to give that nation $25,000,000 and free passage of the Panama Canal in return for the alleged abuse of power by the United States in securing the Panama rights, has been held up. He admitted today he would not press it until the question of repealing the Panama tolls bill has been settled.

Senator Shively of Indiana, acting head of the Foreign Relations Committee who is partly responsible for the holdup, is said to feel that many might say Secretary Bryan is "unnecessarily humiliating the United States."

TO ASK PARDONS TOMORROW IN MULLINS CASE

Chief of Police Martin Conway of North Billerica today declared that Mrs. Elizabeth K. Delorey of West Billerica charged a man close to her family with wife murder, but that investigations which she urged, showed the accusations to be groundless.

Chief Conway says Mrs. Delorey made this murder charge two years after she volunteered to the Cambridge police her sensational story about the Annie Mullins murder mystery, which resulted in her nephew, Peter Delorey, going to State Prison for eighteen years and James Manthe, her Greek chore boy, getting life for the Arlington crime.

ACCUSED OF KILLING.

Chief Conway is corroborated by Chief of Police Frank Farmer of Tewksbury, who hoped Chief Conway investigate Mrs. Delorey's charges.

Petitions for the pardon of Mantis and Delorey are expected to be filed with Governor Walsh tomorrow by Attorneys Frank McDermott and John E. Sweeney.

Here is Chief Martin Conway's statement to an AMERICAN reporter.

"Three years ago Mrs. Delorey of West Billerica came to me and wanted the movements of a man investigated. She said she was positive this man, whom she knew well, had murdered his wife.

"This information she gave me about three years ago, two years after the two boys at her place had been sent up for the alleged murder of Annie Mullins.

"I didn't pay much attention to the story at first, but Mrs. Delorey founded me so much about it I finally decided to look it up. The man complained of, I learned, was employed as engineer at the Tewksbury Hospital. It wouldn't be right to make his name public, because he was entirely above board in the matter.

"Mrs. Delorey's story was that this man had quarreled frequently with his wife and that he was insanely jealous of her. She said they went to the Provinces, but that after that she didn't hear a thing from the wife.

"I asked her why that proved anything, and Mrs. Delorey replied that she felt certain the woman was dead, murdered, or she would have written. She said she always wrote to her regularly and that she surely would have written after reaching there if something hadn't happened.

"KNOWS HE KILLED HER."

"I know he killed her and did away with her body,' said Mrs. Delorey. Chief Farmer of Tewksbury and I got busy. We located the man and his wife and found that they hadn't agreed, but that nothing occurred between them."

Chief Frank Farmer of Tewksbury said: "I remember looking up that fellow and his wife with Chief Conway of Billerica. Mrs. Delorey, whom I have never seen or heard from since, claimed he had done away with his wife. There was nothing to it, other than that the couple quarreled and the man made threats at times.

"The woman went to the Provinces. We traced her baggage and found she was safe and sound. We made the inquiries about three years ago."

MARY GARDEN HAS OFFER TO SING IN BOSTON

PARIS, May 21.—Mary Garden, when approached today for her version of the reported differences between herself and the Chicago Opera Company, said:

"I am opposed on principle to making statements for publication, but the reports in the American newspapers regarding my relations with the Chicago Opera Company are so inaccurate that I think it better to supply you with the facts. Last month, while in San Francisco I was visited by the director of the Chicago Opera, Cleofonte Campanini, to retain next year with his organization. This I declined to do as I felt the continuous traveling in which I was beginning to tell on my health.

"In order to join the company I left New York at the end of March, contrary to the advice of my physician, in response to urgent telegrams from Mr. Campanini."

"Then there is no truth in the statement you were discharged from the Chicago Opera Company?"

"Certainly not. Not only Mr. Campanini, but also Mr. Henry Russell of the Boston Opera Company, offered me an arrangement. In fact, Mr. Russell has two new and interesting creations to make in Boston. One, I may say, is Henri Fevrier's 'Gismondi,' but it is doubtful whether I shall return to America this Winter as I desire to take things easy.

"As I have not sung in Europe for many seasons I am inclined to accept a very tempting offer to give some performances in Russia, a country I am anxious to see. That is all I have to say for the moment."

Rich Hod Carrier
Aged Men in Row

After testifying that her husband while intoxicated hung beefsteaks on the ceiling and often threw crockery at her Mrs. William C. Winship of New York was granted a separation and $11 a week alimony.

When hod carriers working on his new hotel here went on strike leaving the building chimneyless, Russell Frost, a millionaire and former Congressman of South Norwalk, Ct., carried the hod and supplied bricks until the job was completed.

In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Joseph Early, of New York, alleges that her habit of staring at people and looking back at them caused her husband to suspect her of flirting. Early charges his wife wore old clothes at useful function to embarrass him.

For engaging in a "Boyish row" Joseph Lepine, eighty-two, and Joseph Leaney, sixty-seven, of Morristown, N. J., were fined in court here.

ROBBERS KILL STATION AGENT OF TAPPAN, N. Y.

TAPPAN, N. Y., May 21.—While heroically defending the property of his employers, Eugene Houghtaling, the young agent for the West Shore Railroad at this place, was shot to death today by two robbers who escaped with $13.

Thousands of dollars' worth of gems and $300 in cash were in the safe and in the postoffice safe in the same building were a great quantity of stamps and specie, but the thieves became frightened and fled before they could secure all the booty.

William Forest, who lives across the street from the station, reached the street just in time to see the two men fleeing. He fired upon them, but without effect.

Houghtaling was passing his lonely early morning vigil by talking on the telegraph wire with the station agent at Haverstraw, thirteen miles away.

"Robbers are trying to get into my office," said Houghtaling on the wire.

"Quit your kidding," came the word from Haverstraw.

The men suspected that Houghtaling was telegraphing for aid and ordered him to desist. The young agent began rapping with his key again and the man at Haverstraw caught this message: "For God's sake send help, they are going to shoot, Send"——

The message was broken off.

Are you in a "city prison"?

Why does the city seem like a prison when Spring comes?

Of all the pleasures the country affords, which do you long for most?

Isn't it the soft, springy "feel" of the turf under your feet—the joy of the long country walks and outdoor games?

If you must spend most of your time in the city, you can at least go about your work and play with a light, easy stride, free from jar and jolt. You can cushion your step with O'Sullivan's Heels of new live rubber, as soft and resilient as the country turf.

For working, walking, playing and dancing you need O'Sullivan's Heels. They will add to your comfort and improve your health by stopping the pound, pound, pound of hard pavements. O'Sullivanize all your shoes when you buy them.

O'Sullivan's Heels cost but 50c a pair, attached. All shoemakers and shoe dealers will attach them to your shoes when you buy new, or at any other time. If you prefer, send us 50c and a tracing of your heel, and we will mail you a pair. O'Sullivan Rubber Co., 131 Hudson St., New York City.

WOMAN HELD FOR DEATH OF 'WM. TELL' BOY

Henry Gavin, the nineteen-year-old Lynn youth who was accidentally shot by the "Princess Nita" while holding an apple on his head for her to hit in a "William Tell" act in a Lynn Theatre, died in the Lynn Hospital early today.

The "Princess," who had come to Boston after being released on bail yesterday, hurried to Lynn with her husband, Lieutenant Griffin, upon receiving news of the boy's death.

At the hospital the "Princess" met the boy's mother, Mrs. Joseph Gavin. The mother said to the grief-stricken Princess:

"No, I do not blame you. I know it was an accident."

The Princess was re-arraigned in Lynn District Court later in the day. The first charge of assault with a dangerous weapon was raised to one of manslaughter. The case was again continued until Saturday, with bail remaining at $500, which has been furnished.

The Princess said after court:

"I shall never act again. My husband and I have quit the stage and cancelled all our bookings. I shall never forget the bright, confident smile with which that boy faced me when I fired at the apple on his head. I never could do that act again, although I have fired at an apple on my husband's head certainly 10,000 times in the past six years, without hurting him once. But I never could go on again after killing that boy."

Gavin failed to regain consciousness. His parents, his brothers, Thomas and Timothy, and his sister, Theresa, were at his deathbed.

"PRINCESS NITA," who has been held on manslaughter charge for the death of Gavin boy in Lynn Theatre in the "William Tell-shooting-the-apple" act.

FIREMEN ARE OVERCOME IN $10,000 BLAZE

Several firemen were partially overcome by smoke, fighting a stubborn fire which burned from the basement to the roof of the four-story brick building at Nos. 592 and 595 Atlantic avenue, and caused a loss of $10,000 to the firm of Foss & Company, dealers in wool waste, early today.

Two alarms were sounded. It was the third mysterious fire in two days within two blocks for which extra alarms were sounded.

The building extends through to Nos. 222 and 234 Purchase street and was filled with bales of wool. The fire started in the basement. The flames reached the elevator shaft and shot up to the roof, dropping back into the top floor.

The lower floor was blazing fiercely and dense black smoke belched from the cracks and windows on each of the other floors when Deputy Chief Tabor and his men arrived, and he ordered a second alarm.

The thick acrid smoke stifled the firemen and they worked in relays. As fast as one man was forced to quit another took his place. By continuing this system the firemen kept the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Foss & Co. occupied the entire building. They have been several years in the wool business and carried a heavy and costly stock. It was supposed at the start the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion, but a rigid investigation is expected to follow.

Needham Gets Pony Express Licenses

After the three "dryest" weeks in the history of the town, Needham rejoiced today in two new pony express licenses, granted by the Selectmen after long controversy. But druggists' licenses are still denied. Recent action of the Supreme Judicial Court, in ruling that Selectmen must grant at least one pony express license, is supposed to have induced the Needham town fathers to yield.

Five horses were rescued by firemen and police from a fire that partially destroyed the stable of Howard Brothers, contractors, on Dorchester avenue, South Boston. An explosion caused the blaze. The loss will reach $1,500.

CURLEY WOULD PAY SOLONS FOR 4 MONTHS ONLY

A law under which legislators in this Commonwealth would be paid $1,000 on the termination of a session of four months and no further remuneration allowed in case the session lasts longer, was suggested by Mayor Curley at the dinner of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association. Applause and laughter greeted his suggestion.

Pleas to effect a better understanding between executive officers of municipalities and the higher officials of street railways to benefit the riding public as well as shareholders in the companies were offered by speakers at the "mayors' night" of the association.

H. H. Crapo of New Bedford, president of the association, was toastmaster, and the mayors at the guest table were: James M. Curley of Boston, John F. Hurley of Salem, Denis J. Murphy of Lowell, Timothy W. Good of Cambridge, George A. Newhall of Lynn, Hiram H. Landford of Newburyport, John A. Denison of Springfield, Michael A. Scanlon of Lawrence, James H. Kay of Fall River, Nathaniel J. W. Fish of Taunton, Edwin H. Moulton of Haverhill, Zebedee K. Cliff of Somerville, Benjamin A. Cook of Fitchburg, John H. Woods of Holyoke, Edwin O. Childs of Newton, Charles Schumaker of Malden, Harry C. Howard of Brockton, William H. Felker of Northampton, Thomas F. Kearns of Waltham, Patrick J. Moore of Pittsfield, Thomas H. O'Halloran of Marlboro, Charles S. Taylor of Medford, Herman A. MacDonald of Beverly and Oliver B. Munroe of Melrose.

Mayor Hurley declared some of the cars run in the streets of Salem will soon take an extra value as antiques, as old Salem furniture does.

Mayor Good of Cambridge spoke words of praise for the service given his city by the Elevated, and Mayor Munroe of Melrose spoke in similar vein of the operation of the Bay State Street Railway in Melrose.

Rockefeller Must Pay Taxes in Ohio

CLEVELAND, O., May 21.—John D. Rockefeller is a legal resident, taxpayer and voter in Ohio, and "must produce." Tax Commissioners Fackler and Agnew of Cuyahoga County have demanded the oil king declare his personal property returns. Failing in this, he will owe Cuyahoga County $4,230,000.

Phone Girls to Hold May Dance

The "Hello Girls" of the Greater Boston district will hold a May dance on Friday evening in Hibernian Hall, Dudley street, Roxbury. The floor will be in charge of President Anna E. Molloy, Mary C. Meagher, and the following aids: Catherine Tierney, Gertrude E. Devine, Elisabeth L. Breen, Alice Keating, Josephine Delehanty, Anna Brady, Theresa O'Brien, Bessie Shillady, Mary Flavin and Alice J. Donovan.

Teach Morals Soon in Public Schools

"We must train children in right habits and inculcate good moral ideals. It will not be long before such education will be part of every school course, and we will train our pedagogues with careful attention to this matter," declared Dr. David Snedden, State commissioner of education, in an address at the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Massachusetts Universalist Church, resumed at Wakefield today.

The Fra Says—

"When you tell me of your wonderful invention and want to sell me stock in your company, just bring me a snap-shot of the man who is going to manage the concern, as well as a list of what he eats and drinks, the hours he sleeps and how he exercises both his body and sky-piece.

"Then I'll talk with you."

It requires healthy men—with clear thinkers and strong bodies to build a prosperous business.

HARVARD CREW READY FOR BIG CORNELL RACE

William Lamb Forbes, the well-known regatta referee will have charge of the Harvard-Cornell race which are to be rowed along the Charles river mile and seven-eighths course next Tuesday afternoon.

The first race that will be rowed will be between varsity eights. It will start at 4 o'clock, weather and water permitting. After this brush the freshman eights from both institutions will row over the course. Coaches Bowen, the Crimson and Sweasey of Harvard and Stone, Cornell will row the day's regatta.

Cornell's crew will leave Ithaca immediately after the race and will patronize Princeton and Yale. The squad will arrive in the Hub early Sunday morning and will make its objective at the Hotel Victoria. Two boats ago Coach Charles Courtney did not accept the Yale challenge for the Harvard race but with the Carnegie natatorium nearing completion it is probable that the old rivalry will be renewed. Cornell has a long history, the old team will probably think it is doing a favor to Harvard and lend his moral presence to the afternoon's activities.

The race will be rowed over the mile and seven-eighths course along the Charles river basin. The method for the distance that has been done in some time. The official time peddled out was 10 minutes 42 seconds, but the time will stand the test well. Harvard has held the eight-oared championship for the season on the Charles, having defeated Yale and Cornell, but the time in which they were total the race had been rowed.

Another race will be rowed Friday, when the first and second crews will row against other combinations with the Harvard freshmen as the other.

So confident are the Harvard rowing enthusiasts of victory over Yale that plans for practically are completed to have the first eight to row Cambridge, England, on the English Thames next Summer.

The Harvard eight varsity had a chance to test out their new combination in the race over the mile and seven-eighths with the second and freshman crews, which were rowed up to expectations and will be out the varsity eight. The same old fault of the oarsmen, a tendency to sprint at the start, but through the season was eliminated. Long to all the efforts of Coach Bowen the particular fault the men have been rather slow in overcoming.

The performance of shows the first part of the work was completed very promising. The stroke of the crew does not speak up too well. Had the men caught the water just as they got to the end of the first spurt they would doubtless have gone faster. As it was, the oarsmen walled, and the result was slightly cheer to the eye.

DID NOT ROW TOGETHER.

The oarsmen did not get together, as was shown by the way they rowed; they all seemed to be working individually instead of collectively. Toward the end of the race there was a little splashing, and their boat was none too steady.

There was a slight shift in the freshman line-up for the race, Coach Bowen ordering the second freshman crew to put up a four-oared crew, the other oarsmen being sent to the Weld boathouse for voluntary rowing.

The annual Carroll Cup race for single sculls will be held in the Charles River basin this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, over a one-mile course. P. S. Howe, Jr., of West Newton, and H. G. Reynolds, of Milton, have been appointed manager and assistant manager respectively of the freshmen crews.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—Let's gamble a bit, men, what say you?

JOHN DANIELS—Sure, I know a bully game. It's called "Roast."

FITZ—Deal me in.

BOTTOMLY—We really don't care much about the joker in our set. They bob up so unexpected, y'know.

GOO-GOS (Chorus)—That's right.

CURLEY—I'm in. I like a joker myself. I hope they deal me the joker.

FITZ (sotto voce)—You'll get it all right, all right.

SULLIVAN—I gotta go. Fitz, you play my hand, will you? Play it just the way I would. You know my game.

FITZ—I'll play a hand that'll surprise even you.

PRES. COOLIDGE—All ready, Gentlemen, I'm very sorry—

FITZ—Sorry for what?

PRES. COOLIDGE—I dunno yet. But I'm going to be sorry. I can feel it.

FITZ (to Daniels)—Say, John, how do you play this here game of "Roast" anyhow?

DANIELS—Oh, any thing goes, that's all you have to do.

FITZ—Oh, it does, does it? Well, the quick er the funnier.

(Interval of peaceful hands, punctuated by bursts of perfectly innocent laughter.)

PRES. COOLIDGE (to Bottomly)—Rippin' time, what?

BOTTOMLY—All little pals together, Ranny.

CURLEY—Hey, whose hand are you playing there, Fitz?

FITZ—Sully's, he told me to.

CURLEY—I object. Mr. Sullivan is my corporation counsel and he never plays like that. I know his game.

COOLIDGE (admiringly)—You must be SOME player if you do, Mr. Mayor.

FITZ—Whaddaya mean, I ain't playing the right way. I'm the joker, don't you see. I can take any trick I want and get away with it.

PRES. COOLIDGE—Dear me, I apologize, Gentlemen, I apologize to you, Mr. Curley, and to you, Mr. Fitz, and—wouldn't anybody else like a nice apology today?

FITZ—Don't apologize to me. I've done nothin' to be apologized to for—yet.

CURLEY—This is a horrid game. I'm peevish. I'm going right home.

PRES. COOLIDGE—Oh, Mr. Curley, don't go. Really, Mr. Fitz may have misplayed his hand and—

FITZ—'Tisn't my hand. It's Sully's. But I didn't misplay it. I could have played it even worser'n that.

CURLEY—Boy, call my $4,500 limousine. (Exit Mayor.)

BOTTOMLY—There, Fitz, look what you gone and done. I told you at the start I didn't like a joker, anyhow.

FITZ—No, Botty, I guess you don't. Well, you ought to learn how to play 'em. They're great.

LACK OF WIND IS BLAMED FOR THE HAZY SKY

Until a strong wind of some sort comes to Boston's relief, the city may expect to remain smothered under a pall of heavy, smoky haze, according to experts at the Weather Bureau and at the Harvard Observatory.

At the observatory, when asked to explain the phenomenon, the observers said:

"It is distinctly unusual. There is no practicable way of testing the haze to see just what causes it—what is the [illegible] between its [illegible] and the [illegible] of the [illegible]. We can only guess."

"It is unusual condition. The smoke in the atmosphere may come from afar."

The Weather Bureau said:

"Lack of breeze is responsible. The haze is smoke. There has been no breeze for several days to carry away the city's natural smoke. Then this is the forest fire season. There are fires on the Allegash, up in Maine, and there are tremendous fires in Michigan and the West. A good wind will whisk it away."

Some people thought the smoke might come from the eruptions in Italy. Though there is no way of telling, the experts do not believe this is true.

WHITE SOX HERE FOR BIG SERIES WITH RED SOX

By A. H. G. MITCHELL.

The Chicago White Sox are here today to remain three days in fierce combat with the Red Sox. It is their first appearance here this season. Many of them have been around the world since their last appearance here. Some of them come from around New England. There is Johnny Collins, from the Newtons, Tom Daley, who caught for Lowell last season and who would have been a member of the Red Sox outfit if Robert McRoy hadn't slipped a cog in the negotiations; Jimmy Callahan, manager, who hails from Clinton, Mass. and so on.

It has been duly announced by the Red Sox management that Rankin Johnson, who put it all over Walter Johnson in a game at Washington three weeks ago, will pitch for Carrigan's men.

The question of who will pitch for the White Sox is an open one. It will not be Eddie Cicotte who worked in Philadelphia on Tuesday, and it will not be Scott, who pitched yesterday. "Lefty" Russell or Benz are the most likely candidates for mound duty.

Taking three out of four from the Tigers is considerable of a baseball feat and this shows how the Red Sox are going just now. We would still like to see a bit more hitting by our Boys and not leave everything to the pitchers.

Saturday a Big Day in Cornell Athletics

ITHACA, May 21.—The authorities at Cornell are planning to handle one of the largest crowds that ever attended an athletic day at Ithaca, Saturday. The arrival of the Princeton crew today, all the Yale crew in preparation for the triangular regatta on Lake Cayuga, marks the first time that these crews have rowed on Lake Cayuga. The Princeton freshman and Cornell freshman race will be an added attraction to the varsity race, which is rowed over a splendid two-mile course along the east shore of the lake.

The baseball team is being put through a stiff practice every day this week in preparation for the Yale game, which precedes the regatta and they have great hopes in winning from last year's intercollegiate champions.

I. A. A. A. Plans Big Outdoor Track Meet

Plans for furnishing a big outdoor athletic meet in midsummer are now being considered by the members of the Irish-American A. A. of this city. The meet will be held at Locust street, Saturday, July 18. Boston has been without a big outdoor meet in midsummer since the St. Augustine Church of South Boston abandoned its games, with the single exception of the Olympic carnival provided by the Boston Lodge of Elks two years ago.

Murphy in Shape for Go with Mohr

Eddie Murphy, the South Boston lightweight, will today complete his training at Highland Lake for his twelve-round bout with Walter Mohr of Brooklyn, which will be staged before the Univerasity Club in Cambridge tomorrow night. Mohr is expected to arrive in this city late tonight or early tomorrow morning and sends word that he believes he will beat Murphy. The University Club has opened an office at room 744 Old South Building.

Welsh and Dundee in Battle Tomorrow

NEW YORK, May 21.—Considerable interest is being taken today in the ten-round bout that will be fought out here tomorrow night between Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight champion, and Johnny Dundee, the sensational local scrapper. The men will weigh tomorrow afternoon at 135 pounds.

Lasker Wins Again.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—In the two adjourned games in the international chess tourney concluded, Lasker beat Alechine; Alechine and Capablanca drew. The standing: Lasker 12, Capablanca 11, Alechine 10, Marshall and Tarrasch, 8 each.

BRAVES OPEN SERIES TODAY AGAINST CUBS

CHICAGO, May 21.—The Boston Braves are here today for their first series of the season against the Cubs and they will remain the rest of the week, which means four fast games for the fans.

The Boston boys have not been winning many of their games lately, but the article of a ball they have been putting up is of a high order, and in every case their opponents have had to travel at top speed to win out.

Stallings has Perdue and Tyler for the opening struggle today while the Cubs will probably use either Cheney or Humphries.

The Braves had a run of hard luck in their series with the Pirates, which they just finished losing three and winning only one, a few displays of critical fans favoring the ladies in favor of the opposing team.

CHAPTER SIX

Discovered

ETHEL shivered slightly as the cold breeze from the river blew in on her. She had crouched desolately on the stone seat trying to decide what to do, for what had seemed to her a long time, but no solution of the problem presented itself. The fact remained that she could not stay at Ardsley, for Rogers was liable to take advantage of her at any time, and just why he had made the attempt and had then released her so suddenly she could not understand. Wearily she dragged herself to bed, and shivering under the warm covers that she had pulled over her she finally drifted off to sleep.

The next morning Rogers greeted her just as if nothing had happened. The sun seemed to be shining just as fair, it all seemed like an ugly dream meant to be forgotten with the morning sunlight, and Ethel resolved to forget the night before and say nothing about it for the present.

The truth of the matter was that Rogers had been trying to ingratiate himself with the girl and had believed the time had at last arrived when he might approach her without being repulsed. When she had spurned his advances so decidedly he had been furious with himself for spoiling his chances, and had resolved to go about his plans in a different way. If she liked subtle ways of approach he would humor her, and after the correspondence was cleared up and Ethel had left the room he made his way to the room above which the girl occupied to leave a sheaf of flowers on her desk.

The desk was littered in a way truly feminine, and Rogers smiled a little as he sat down before it and idly glanced at some of the letters. Suddenly he started and held up a piece of paper before him in amazement. And so this was the family she had sprung from, her father had been the head of a counterfeiting gang and had served his time in prison, this was his daughter, this girl with the dainty aristocratic manner of one born to the purple. Well, he would show her. Rushing out of the room with the paper crushed in his hand, he confronted the girl, who was writing busily on the terrace.

"Why didn't you tell me who you were? he sneered, catching her in his arms and bending over her. "I guess you won't be so particular in the future, eh? Not when I tell you that I know all about your little secret." And he held up the slip of paper before her, as she gave a little scream of despair.

"Come now, be sensible. Nobody is going to know about it," he whispered, bending his face to hers, "not if you decide to be a good girl. We'll keep it for a secret between us. What do you say to that?"

Ethel with a final struggle managed to get rid of the arms that encircled her, and without stopping for anything she ran wildly into the house and up to her own rooms. She packed her few belongings together, and seizing her hat and coat she slipped down the back way and out of the house. Down the long road she slowly toiled. It was a long way to the railroad station, and she soon grew very warm and tired, but on she went. Soon the house, with its winding driveway, was left far behind, and Ethel began to grow so weary that she decided to pause at least for a rest.

She sat down on her dress suit case by the roadside, and slowly the tears of disappointment forced themselves over her lashes and down her cheeks. She had been so happy at Ardsley, and now nothing in the world was left to her. Rogers would not even give her a recommendation, not even if she had the courage to ask for it, and she had hardly enough money in her purse to pay her way back to town.

Suddenly down the long road came a little market wagon, with a jolly little man seated on the high seat, singing away at the top of his voice. It was Martin, and Ethel jumped to her feet and hailed him as he passed. Martin was down at her side in a moment listening to her story and shaking his head gravely, and then, as a sudden thought struck him, he hastily helped the girl into the cart, and as they drove off he delightedly unfolded his plan.

My Wonderful Trip to the Clouds

A startling description of the famous woman artist's thrilling journey to a height of 3,500 feet with dare-devil Glenn Martin.

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service

AFTER innumerable flights of artistic fancy it has remained for Miss Nell Brinkley, the famous contributor to the Hearst newspapers, to make her first flight of reality into the air in Los Angeles. In Glenn Martin's big four-passenger carrying biplane, which is now being transformed into a bomb-hurling war acroplane for the government, Miss Brinkley made an aerial voyage from the Griffith Park Aviation Field a few days ago, soaring over the Hollywood Mountains and the San Fernando Valley. Miss Brinkley, whose pictures and writings in the Hearst newspapers and magazines have made her internationally celebrated, has written and pictured for the magazine page, in her own fascinating vein, her impressions of this southern California air-ride.

Here they are:

By Nell Brinkley

YOU'LL forgive me if this telling is jumbloous like a faery tale—and capricious like some people's minds—hopping around from one thrill to another like a joyous little old grasshopper. But flying IS a faery tale, and the most soldiery mind that ever was, when it had set the tip-toes of its feet on the green earth after its first flight, would turn suddenly whimsey and daft. It's hard to keep the after enthusiasm all to yourself, and it's harder than ever to tell it, for the words go twittering around like humming birds, and the sun shines on them, and you blink—as a little chap is reduced, it seems, to a bright-eyed stuttering little s-s-s-syphon!

For I have flown. I flew—I did! With Glenn Martin—the "safe man" in the shining great dragon-tailed bird that is now (this day or two after) being dissected and picked apart bone by bone and built over into a thing of war—to carry ugly little gray bombs to M'exico, instead of girls, for Uncle Sam, who is attacking his dry-goods" and rubbing his palms in the dirt. The dragonfly is slipping its iridescent sheath and taking on the feathers and talons of the eagle. And I have had the great luck to ride it for one splendid half-hour before it went on the operating table, for its shedding.

And now I know how it would be to be the great sea gull who volplanes past my windows at the beach. I've watched him and wondered how it is with him, to look down on the things of the earth instead of upwards up—as we do! As the moving faces of the folks he cares about and his world are always up, to the eyes of our pet dog. I've wondered how it was with a gull to carry his body along into the blue sky where only the gaze of our eyes can go. And now I know how it is with him. I know how the tiny heart of the Princess Badroulbadour tightened and her aliant eyes widened to hold the great sights when her genii-spun palace took wings to itself and flew from a place in China to North Africa! I know how the one brother of the three in Bagdad who rode the magic rug had a mighty delight at his heart when he drifted like a homing bird above the Austrian mountains! I know how Icarus longed for the sun when he took wings from the sea cliffs of Greece: how the Prince who bestrode the winged horse leaned and found the green plans of the earth just as a grandmother's "crazy-quilt" made of bright bits of silk pieces." I know all this!

while he chased a soaring hawk in the bowl of the sky my heart was clapping its hands. He made a landing like a sigh—as a gull drops on a long slant, soundlessly—as gently as you slip into a dream—the plane's airy structure for running on the ground tip-toeing swiftly along the earth like the gull's slim toes. And I have seen birdmen in landing take the earth like a rubber ball. But this—was beautiful.

And then I and my city editor and the Mind of this great bird, tucked in close and tight behind the roaring wind of the propeller and we started to sally across the green field. And I think I felt like singing then. Out from me each side stretched the pale sand-colored wings. And we tip-toed along. And then while I looked hard and tried so hard to see and feel and know, my mother-earth drew her breast down and away, and we mounted! After that we hunted the sun! We lifted and climbed seventy-five miles an hour into the frying rage of the clouds. One was as white as wool and drifted by us like torn chiffon. We never tipped and leaned (I thought) but the world did 'till I knew the little squares of groves and gardens and towns, so tiny and perfect, would go sliding off.

I've thought what LITTLE steps we take—and how when we dream of freedom we always tip our faces UP—to the sky. Water—and the things we do in it—the stretched body—the feet loose from the earth—has been our elbowroom! but the air! By gracious, HERE is freedom! Your heart grows too big for the narrow cage of your breast—it swells so with the joy of thousands of feet between you and the upturned face of the world. Here the wind blew, with the giant whirl of the propeller and our own speed, with a voice like a storm. Down behind the hood of the eight-cylinder engine we could hear one another shout; but, for the rest, it was pantomime. And at twenty-five hundred feet, when Glenn Martin behind his wheel wanted to know if we would like to keep climbing he stabbed upward with a leather finger and laughed. And the tail of the dragon bent down and we soared to 3,500 feet close under the clouds, with the earth below all prim and silent and dim. And down in the crazy-quilt of its plains and mountain chains, all cozy and fastened, there was a bit of varied color like a snip of silk from a wedding vest—Mother shook me into the consciousness of a brooding, cloud-filled day. And what she said was, "Kinchen—get up—you have to hurry if you're going to fly." If my little old grandmother's mother had called that into her dream-drowned ears—what would she have done? Just slipped into oblivion with one feeble, terrified, "By gracious!" "sprized out of her? I think so. And so I hurried. I didn't know then what hat I pulled on—but now I know it was one I didn't like. But when you are invited to be a bird in the air, a prince on a magic rug, a lost star, you can't even see what hat when you are looking at it.

LIKE A LADY-BUG

Glenn Martin, in leather and helmet, and moleskin-lined gloves, and a smile, went up first alone to try his wings. And I stood on the flat little earth, feeling like a lady-bug, and that, Glenn Martin said, was Los Angeles.

VOLPLANING

Here at this height—the bird man killed his engine. And we settled back; and through the mighty, wonderful silence that lay around and under we volplaned down, dropping throught the sea of air on a swift, coasting wing. Here WAS a sea, gull! The earth rose swiftly to meet us and take us back again. I didn't feel that we fell. WE sailed on a floating silence—and always it was the earth that rose. So wonderful was our landing that I never knew for sure the instant we touched the ground. I was just sorry to come down—I knew that the grass was running swiftly under our wings—we drew softly up to the doors of the hangar like a taxi calling for a fine lady—and I knew then that somewhere yards back we had settled on solid ground.

Coming through the deep grass—silent with the daze and the wonder of it, all I could think of was that we had touched earth so perfectly—and that my work in the world seemed so pitiful and small an offering in accomplishment beside this thing of being a successful one of the great vanguard of fliers—history makers—mighty and practical dreamers.

Glenn Martin is known as the "safe man." He is careful in his flying and his building. That means that he makes it possible for just you and me and our milkman to be able to take to wings some day. The United States government has given him the making of army machines space with men who are older and have built and flown longer than he. He is young—with a modest and cool head, and a ready smile.

When he was a little boy he made kites on his mother's kitchen floor at night, and out of the litter he built up—"oh, quite a little bit of business"—two kite spiece!" All sorts of shapes they were—built at an angle to scorn having a tail. One he planned to fly on—but his mother took him and his kite, when the rumor came to her, out of the lists before he could get foot in stirrup!

"My mother is afraid a little, I think," he said, and smiled. "But she wouldn't tell for the world—for fear it would be an atom to drag on my work. That's mothers, you know. I've been down pretty deep, you know—when my plans went all awry and my head wouldn't solve my problems. But mother FED me, and told me it would all feel right in the morning, and it always did. Bless her heart! Mother's a booster!"

And I liked that, because I have a weakness for a certain little mother of my own.

This has faeries, and seagulls, and mothers in it, all rather tumbled up, but I've tried hard to make you know how it is to fly. And after all my trouble the city editor, in three little old words, said it better than I have. Says he: "It's great stuff!"

Mlle. Gaby Boissy of the Theatre Imperial, Paris, says: "I am happy to be able to render homage to the beautifying qualities of Savon Cadum."

A healthy skin and a good complexion depend upon the constant renewal of the cuticle. This renewal cannot take place as nature intends it should if the pores of the skin are clogged with waste matter. The daily use of Savon Cadum, the great French Complexion Soap, insures cleanliness, and produces a healthy activity of the pores, which is of vital importance in maintaining a clear skin. LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were weaker today. They "marked time." The recession was apparently due more to inertia than to pressure. The public had no hand in trading, and outside interest appeared to be at a minimum.

Early in the afternoon losses in New York included Southern Pacific ¼, Missouri Pacific ¼, Lehigh Valley ¼, American Can ⅝, Steel ⅛, Amalgamated ⅛, American Smelting ⅛, Northern Pacific ⅛ and Baltimore & Ohio ⅛. Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific were unchanged, and Reading was ⅛ higher.

Massachusetts Gas, which was not so active today as yesterday, was then ½ lower in Boston, while among other declines were United Fruit 1¼, American Telephone ¼, Butte & Superior ⅜, North Butte ⅛ and East Butte ⅛. Granby was up ¼ and Osceola ⅛. Boston & Maine and New Haven were unchanged.

STOCKS OPEN WEAKER.

Stocks were on a slightly lower level at the opening. The downward movement was not pronounced and before the morning was over in New York the tone seemed slightly firmer. Dealings were almost altogether professional. Traders said that the market was again in a rut. Before New York opened the majority of American funds had declined fractionally in London. That market had no new features. Its followers were in a waiting mood. The Bank of England statement for the week gave little encouragement. Complaints appear to be on the wane in Europe. The situation is, this country is having worldwide effect.

The April report of Baltimore & Ohio helped improve sentiment towards rails, which has been more or less damaged by the uncertainty of Mr. Mellen regarding the New Haven system. Missouri Pacific sold below 16 during the morning. One of the many rumors circulated about the road is that bankers have refused to assist in financing it out of its present difficulties unless Gould interests are eliminated from the corporate. There appeared to be no support for Western Maryland, which sold at a new low price yesterday. Its earnings last year were $515,000 less than fixed charges. A deficit of more than $2,000,000 is feared. Trading continued quiet, first hour transactions amounting to less than 57,000 shares.

MARKETS LACKED MOTIVES.

Conditions which have been governing markets were the same, and it was remarked that they needed something new as an impelling force. There was very little discussion of the Mexican situation and expectation of the granting of higher freight rates to Eastern roads is an old story. A disquieting rumor today was that it is that the expected concession may be in such form that it will be some time before the rail carriers can derive any benefit from it. Another disturbing report from Washington is that President Wilson will insist upon Congress remaining in session until his legislative program has been fully enacted. Wall Street had hoped that anti-trust bills would be over until a new one had been sworn in.

During the noon hour a number of issues made partial recoveries, but the list still averaged below yesterday's closing range.

MASS GAS STILL WEAK.

There was no life to the Boston market and transactions did not total much. Massachusetts Gas common continued weak, although it is stated that interests connected with that corporation expect to pay 6 per cent. earn and pay a 6 per cent. dividend on its common stock. A local financial publication says: "The manner in which there has been strong inside buying of the stock during the last two days."

There was not much business here in American Telephone, which was stagnant in New York. Its gross earnings for this year are expected to increase from $11,000,000 to $12,000,000. But this would not be as good a record as the company made in 1912 and in 1912.

Including the quarterly distribution of ½ a share which Calumet & Hecla directors have just authorized, stockholders in that corporation will have received $134,250,000 in dividends since it was organized.

The Boston was irregular during the morning and later, but the majority of local issues were in the recessional column.

EFFECT OF THE NEW TARIFF.

The effect of the new tariff is beginning to be felt. Last month imports exceeded exports in amount by $18,000,000. This means that the country has begun to buy more abroad than it sells. Of course the benefit of this is open to question and has been argued for several centuries without reaching any definite conclusion either side. When General Winfield Scott Hancock was a Democratic candidate for the Presidency he made a remark that did more to perpetuate his memory than his nomination. He said, "The tariff is a local issue." In sections where there are large industrial producers low tariff or free trade is more popular than in others where mill and shop owners favor high rates. At times as much in wages as is paid to rivals in European plants. A Chicago dispatch of interest reads:

"Wholesale clothiers say prominent English garment makers and cutters' exchanges in London now in leading American cities soliciting orders for goods which are to be made in Europe and shipped into this country. The information is based on letters received by local clothiers from their London correspondents, who say that the cheaper grades of domestic manufacture will be met by similar grades of foreign make."

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

For the fiscal year ended with March the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company broke all its records as to gross business. It established $43,732,646, or $3,756,031 more than for the previous year.

The Bank of England's minimum discount rate remained unchanged today at 5 per cent. Its reports reserves, as compared to liabilities, at 42.86 per cent. The percentage for the corresponding week a year ago was 56.39.

The Baltimore & Ohio road reports that for April last net operating revenue increased $454,000. That for ten months to the end of the month there was a decrease of $882,956.

Wilson Disappoints G. A. R. Men Again

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Officials of the Grand Army of the Republic are disappointed over President Wilson's second refusal to take part in the Memorial Day exercises at Arlington. Mr. Wilson failed in the observance of a time honored custom followed for many years by Presidents when he declined an invitation to deliver an address at Arlington on Memorial Day last year. Despite this the Grand Army fully expected him to participate in the exercises this year.

BRITISH WAGE WAR ON TOILS IN THEIR OWN SUEZ CANAL

On board the Arabic, which came in from Liverpool and Queenstown on Monday, were Mr. and Mrs. James P. Kelley, leading South American citizens, who are just ending a prolonged European tour. Mr. Kelley is connected with large interests in Argentina. He has crossed the Atlantic more than forty times and has such a worldwide acquaintance that he is as much at home in London or Paris as he is in Buenos Aires or Boston.

Mr. Kelley called at the editorial room of the AMERICAN today to greet old friends and also to express his appreciation of the stand of the Hearst papers on the question of Panama Canal tolls.

"The day before we left Liverpool," said Mr. Kelley, "I bought a copy of the Liverpool Post and Mercury. In looking over the paper I was interested to see an article headed 'Suez Canal Tolls.'

READ WITH AMAZEMENT.

"I read the article through with amazement. Here, in the columns of the greatest newspaper of the great port and city of Liverpool, I read facts about England's control of the Sues Canal which were fairly dumbfounding in the light of the position which England is trying to compel us to take today in the matter of the Panama Canal. Every American citizen should read this Liverpool article.

"The Sues Canal Company is very closely connected with people in high place in England. Much of Queen Victoria's vast fortune was invested in its stock.

"Yet, see from this article how the English press is beginning to hold at the matter of Suez Canal tolls. The article says:

"'The governments of Australia and New Zealand are again strongly urging the home government to use their influence with the board of the Sues Canal Company to secure a further reduction of the duties charged to ships passing through the canal, and there is reason for believing that the representations which are being made to the board will be successful. When the canal was constructed the great waterway it was understood that when the dividend of the company exceeded 15 per cent. the dues would be reduced to about that figure per annum. The average dividends up to the present have been about 27 per cent., but the dues still charged are at the rate of 5s. 2½d. per ton.

BURDEN OF SHIPPING.

"'Up to the present the Canal Company has maintained that the work of deepening and improving the canal which is being carried out is of more importance to shipping than an actual reduction in the rates; but this view is not shared by either the shipping companies or the governments of the dominions concerned. Both feel that, even with the completion of the improvements now in progress, the existing charges constitute an embarrassing burden on shipping.

"'For instance, a ship of 10,000 tons has at present to pay £2,600 for each passage through the canal. In other words, the vessels of the P. & O. Company that carry the Australian mails have to pay in dues a sum exceeding the amount of the subsidy or the amount paid in wages to the whole of the crews of those vessels.'"

Mrs. Longworth, Sr., Slyly Digs Roosevelt

NEW YORK, May 21.—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, mother of Nicholas Longworth, Jr., Theodore Roosevelt's son-in-law, sailed for Europe yesterday aboard the steamship La Provence to spend the Summer with her daughter. She was accompanied by her twelve-year-old grandson, Buckner Wallingford.

She was asked if she was leaving to escape the River of Doubt.

"Not at all," she replied. "It is a perfectly good river and progressive rivers should run uphill. The trip has probably done the Colonel good, as it has enabled him to rid himself of all excess energy and maybe he will be subdued for the Summer."

'Resignation Not Ordered' by Huerta

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—Provisional President Huerta in the course of an interview said: "The Mexican peace delegates have no instructions to offer my resignation at the conferences at Niagara Falls." The President then added with energy: 'standing erect, and emphasized his words with a characteristic gesture.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD

To the Holders of Notes of the Boston & Maine Railroad:

A careful study of the present financial and physical conditions and future needs of the Boston & Maine Railroad and its leased lines has been made for the Board of Directors by Mr. Harry J. Miller. His report shows that the property is now generally in good physical condition; that the decline in net income has been due partly to decrease in gross earnings, but chiefly to large increases during the last few years in wages, in the cost of materials and supplies and in fixed charges incurred by reason of expenditures for additions and improvements, a large part of which, such as the elimination of grade crossings and installation of a comprehensive system of automatic signals, has been for the convenience and safety of the public, but without adding to the revenue of the railroads; that while certain economies in operation may be possible, the company must have, and is justly entitled to, higher rates on both freight and passengers in order to earn a fair return upon the actual cost of the properties represented by outstanding bonds, notes and shares of stock; and that a disintegration of the system would be disadvantageous not only to holders of securities of the company and its leased lines, but also to the public.

With the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission and of the Public Service Commissions of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, the company has already arranged to put into effect certain increases in rates and will ask for further increases as fast as the necessary steps can be taken. It is reasonable to expect that the public and the Commissions will approve such further increases as may reasonably be needed to enable the company to earn a fair return upon invested capital.

In order to put the company's affairs on a stable basis in accordance with sound methods of financing and to provide for future capital requirements, the directors are of the opinion that the companies comprising the system should be unified and that the right should be acquired under proper and reasonable conditions to issue preferred stock and a mortgage upon the combined property securing all existing bonds and notes and providing for future requirements.

In order to accomplish a reorganization which will not only protect the bonds and notes of the Boston & Maine and leased companies, but will also give due recognition to the shares of stock of leased companies, time is needed to work out the details of a plan and to apply for legislation permitting the issue of preferred stock and mortgage bonds.

If such a reorganization is to be accomplished, it is necessary that substantially all the Boston & Maine Notes now outstanding, amounting to $27,000,000, should be extended or exchanged for new notes. The company hereby makes two alternative propositions to the holders of these notes:—

(1) Any holder of notes may extend the par amount thereof until March 2, 1915, with interest discounted at the rate of 6% per annum, or

(2) Any holder of notes may extend 60% thereof as above and may receive, in exchange for the remaining 40%, at par and accrued interest, Five-year 5% Notes of the Maine Railways Companies due April 1, 1919.

The total issue of Maine Railways Companies' Notes is $12,162,000. They are secured by deposit of $15,960,100 par value of stock of Maine Central Railroad Company, on which dividends are now paid at the rate of 6% per annum. The present market value of Maine Central stock is about $98 per share; it is carried as collateral for these Maine Railways Companies' Notes at about $76.50 per share.

Noteholders are requested to inform the Old Colony Trust Company, 17 Court St., Boston, Mass., before two o'clock p. m. of Monday, May 25, 1914, which of the above alternative offers they respectively desire to accept, and to state in their letters giving this information the numbers and denominations of the notes held by them.

Noteholders will subsequently be asked to present their notes for extension or exchange.

By order of the Board of Directors.

Morris McDonald
President

Boston, May 15, 1914.

NO. 19

ATTENTION, MAYOR CURLEY!

If you had made as good a contract for the people of Boston with the Electric Light Company as the City of Grand Rapids, Mich., made with its Electric Light Company, Boston would save about one million, three hundred and nine thousand dollars during the period of the contract which you wish to foist upon Boston. This great sum saved by the city would give more than ONE THOUSAND, SEVEN HUNDRED AND FORTY WORKMEN A FULL YEAR'S EMPLOYMENT.

Would you have been elected Mayor, Mr. Curley, if you had told the people of Boston that you considered the 12 per cent. dividends of the Edison Electric Light Company more sacred than the bread and butter of the clerks, the laborers, the police, the firemen, the nurses, the matrons employed by the city, whom you have reduced or discharged, or more sacred than the pleasure and health which the citizens obtain from their parks and public buildings which your FALSE economy tends to cripple?

Plum Island Hotel Destroyed by Fire

NEWBURYPORT, May 21.—Plum Island Hotel at the beach, four miles from here, was destroyed by fire early today, with a loss of $10,000. Thomas F. Burney had recently purchased the property. The fire today was due to a defective flue. The chef discovered the blaze. There were no guests in the house, and the few employes had no difficulty in escaping. Apparatus sent from Newburyport could not check the blaze, but extinguished the car barns adjoining when they caught.
